Why are we squabbling over 8 miles of road?

Time is running out for the game farm

By Shirley Jamison

Why the Provincial Government is dragging its feet on the proposal to re-establish the Game Farm on the section of land offered by owners Walter Jerram and Bill Cochrane north of Bon Accord is a question not easily answered.

An enormous advantage to the government is the offer of 640 acres of land which adjoins a lake, and is in all respects ideal for a game farm, at NO COST.

At present day land prices this is a great opportunity to keep the exceptionally popular game farm in this region, without a large investment by the province. The animals will also be provided by the owners. But the government chooses to haggle with the MD of Sturgeon over the cost of upgrading eight miles of road to access the site, estimated by Transport Minister Kroeger at between two and three million. However, on the basis of recently completed road projects, it would appear construction costs would be closer to the 1 and a half million mark.

Alberta Transport has offered to absorb two-thirds of the road cost if MD Sturgeon pays one-third. This offer was termed fair and equitable by St. Albert MLA Myrna Fyfe, who told the MD council that Minister Kroeger had advised her his department is over its budget for roads.

The MD position in the matter is understandable. They are prepared to put up $500,000 for the road. However the MD does not stand to get a great return from a game farm, since the farm itself would be assessed as a farm, not a commercial operation, as the Red Barn is.

As for Lily Lake Road - it is not a road to nowhere!

It serves a major sand and gravel resource in the Waugh area 10 miles north of the proposed site. This resource is almost unlimited. And the road also serves the Half Moon Lake recreation area which attracts many people every summer.

Not only that, but with a little foresight it may be seen that in future an eight-mile extension of Lily Lake Road north at Waugh intersection would connect with Highway 18. Surely this is sound planning for the future.

There are no undue difficulties with pipelines or utility lines as far as upgrading Lily Lake Road, nor are right-of-way costs out of line at about $75,000.

DISCUSSION IN LEGISLATURE

Last Thursday in the Legislature Dr. Walter Buck, Social Credit Clover Bar, and Dr. Ken Paproski PC Edmonton Kingsway questioned both the Minister of Transport, Mr. Kroeger, and the Minister of Public Lands and Wildlife Mr. Miller, on the possibility of support for the Game Farm. Mr. Miller said he has met with Mr. Jerram and Mr. Cochrane, who were doing "an excellent job" at the Red Barn, and were interested in purchasing animals and retaining them in this area "for the good of all Albertans."

The two members who represent the area, Myrna Fyfe for St. Albert, and George Topolinski for Redwater-Andrew, both remained silent during the discussions.

The problem is that there is no time for dragging of feet, if the animals are to be purchased and moved to this site. Walter and Bill have only until November 15 to tie down the purchase of the animals. They are negotiating for 80 species, and although the present game farm will close to the public, Mr. Oeming will keep some land, and would hold the animals until the new site is ready. The rest of his land will be subdivided.

For that matter Walter and Bill will have to subsidize the Game Farm operation for years. If it were a viable money-maker why have many sites not been offered? Through contact with other game farms they know that a game farm is only a break-even operation at best. This one will require 12 year-round staff and more in the summer.

It is the province that benefits from the tourists attracted by the Game Farm to Northern Alberta. Tourism is really big business in Alberta.

It is the province that must move quickly to ensure that the Game Farm remains in this area for the enormous benefit it offers all Albertans and the Government itself.

ALCB to locate in St. Albert

The Alberta Liquor Control Board is locating a 400,000 square foot warehouse in Campbell Industrial Park which should be ready for occupation by 1982 or 1983. Construction is to begin in 1981. A second building stage will bring the square footage to 900,000.

The move has caused some concern in the City of Edmonton because of the loss of potential tax revenue estimated by Edmonton Mayor Cec Purves to be from $300,000 to $350,000 in the initial stages to more than $500,000 when totally complete.

In a CBC interview Friday morning of last week the Edmonton mayor responded in the negative to a question whether he felt the move had anything to do with annexation. He said he had asked the provincial government for a cost analysis breakdown which would not only include land prices but also taxes, operating costs, trucking costs, travelling time by staff living in Edmonton and whether Campbell Industrial is included or not included in the four mile switching radius of the railways. He added that the citizens of Edmonton had the right to know these facts.

Mayor Purves said the Provincial Government told him they purchased the land in Campbell Industrial at a good price but, "you have to look at the other costs. They will far exceed the land in the long run."

"It's a tax loss to the citizens of Edmonton and I think it's important to us," he said.

Mayor Purves also took the opportunity to comment on St. Albert's industrial tax base. "They're so far behind their goals to get a balanced industrial tax base," he said, "it isn't even funny."

No one at St. Albert City Hall could tell us exactly what tax revenue would accrue to this city upon completion of the ALCB facility but City Business Co-ordinator Dale Huntingford felt assured that an "adequate return" would be realized.

The 'good price' referred to by Purves was under negotiation for sometime according to Huntingford. Documents are now being drawn up for presentation to council later this month. They will show a purchase price of $42,000 per acre or $1.4 million for the 32 acre parcel.

The Gazette understands that a preferred site in Edmonton was turned down by the province because the owner wanted to lease not sell.

Truck movements to and from the warehouse sight will necessarily involve Hebert Road in the immediate future but will eventually be using Campbell Road (156 St.) when that has been completed. The largest percentage of truck traffic will be routed to Edmonton.

CAMPBELL 68% SOLD

St. Albert has now sold 68% of the lots in Stage One of Campbell thus realizing almost all (99%) of the initial outlay to purchase and develop the site. The remaining lots when sold will realize a profit to the city. Mr. Huntingford couldn't say exactly what profit the city could expect but that the remaining lots, which are more expensive, should bring a good profit if the present rate of sales is maintained.

Mr. Huntingford said he didn't have a comment on Mr. Purves' hint that the province's decision was related to annexation. He was content to leave the politicking to politicians. "I just sell land," he said.

Decision protested

Council not happy with two cable firms

St. Albert council has decided to send a letter to the Canadian Radio and Television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) registering its disappointment with a recent decision to grant a licence to QCTV to operate in certain parts of St. Albert.

Ald. Barry Breadner made the motion, unanimously accepted by council, that the city register its disappointment with the commission with a copy of the letter to go to MP Peter Elzinga.

the CRTC that Capital Cable was already servicing the community with its own channel, and even though QCTV already had the licence to broadcast, it had made no attempts to fulfill its mandate.

"We're being forced," said Mr. Breadner, "to accept a decision made with the stroke of the pen which was in error."

Ald. Rod Thronson said he would prefer to have one station to service all the city or both servicing all areas rather than split up the city into separate viewing areas, which might be divisive to the city. He was also worried that council's effort to get Capital Cable to set up a station in the city and to cover council meetings had met with resistance from the company.

"There's no indication of a new station from QCTV," said Mr. Thronson. "Are the people of Woodlands to be deprived of services? But since there's nothing that can be done, we should talk to QCTV to see if they will provide the same services, although I don't think there'd be room for another camera in here."

Ed Polanski, QCTV's major stockholder told the Gazette last month that a local studio will be built in the city by next summer or Timing and the amount of programming depends, he said, on how quickly QCTV starts getting cable subscribers. A portion of Lacombe Park will be transferred to QCTV shortly he added, and other customers will originate in Woodlands.

He predicted approximately 1,000 subscribers by next fall, enough, he said, to start studio and local shows.

A CRTC hearing on December 5, 1978 in Edmonton, determined QCTV's right to broadcast in St. Albert in addition to facilities already provided by Capital Cable. Council, as intervenor against the application, told

ROD THRONSON

Woman dies following highway accident

A 26 year old Edmonton woman died in Royal Alexandra Hospital from injuries sustained in a two-car collision last Wednesday night.

Adrianna (Audrey) DeJong died in hospital the afternoon after the collision, which also sent three other people to hospital.

Jeff Adams, the driver of the vehicle carrying Miss DeJong, sustained knee damage and was operated on, and his wife, Helen, sustained minor cuts and bruises.

The accident occurred on Highway 28 near the Namao overpass about 11:30 p.m. on hallowe'en night.

According to St. Albert RCMP, a vehicle driven by Sieglinda Barudzija of Edmonton was travelling northbound on Hwy 28 when it went into the east ditch and then returned to the highway surface, crossing over the centre line and into the path of the southbound Adams vehicle, colliding almost head-on.

Barudzija sustained undetermined injuries and was taken to Sturgeon General Hospital in St. Albert.

RCMP investigations have led to a charge of impaired driving against Barudzija.

Borrowing approved - to service Stage 2 - Campbell Park

A maximum of $886,000 will be borrowed by the city of St. Albert from the Bank of Montreal to provide interim financing to install servicing in Campbell Industrial Park, Stage Two.

Council passed a temporary bylaw to permit administration to borrow the money with total costs anticipated at $920,036. The city's finance director, Barry Miller, told council that the temporary local borrowing would be more advantageous than issuing a debenture for the total amount now as local improvement taxes could then be applied when the project was completed.

Ald. Roger Ayotte, wondered if borrowing rates differed significantly from debenture rates and what the cost difference to the city would be. Mr. Miller pointed out that while the debenture would be drawn on 11 1/8 per cent as opposed to a 16 per cent interest rate at the bank, the advantage to the town would be that it could then levy taxes on the final actual costs of the development.

Debenture borrowing would mean that the city would have to start levying local improvement taxes on existing costs (of putting in services) which would not account for inflation.

"It's a trade off," he said. "If you are to borrow debenture funds now you have to levy taxes in 1980. Short term borrowing would be of great advantage as taxes would not have to be levied until 1981."

ALD. AYOTTE would a debenture be cheaper?

Any additional costs, he added will eventually be charged back to the developer as part of the project and levied as a local improvement tax.

A debenture will be issued on or around August 1980, after completion of the project and accounting for final costs has been done.

City buys industrial land

The city of St. Albert will exercise its option to purchase 132.5 acres of land immediately north of the present Campbell Industrial Park for $5,301,200.

The land, owned by Allarco Developments of Edmonton, was available until January 4, 1980 with the city being given first crack to buy. Council passed a motion Monday night to purchase the land and also authorized the administration to borrow the money needed.

Council felt the land purchase a good buy and congratulated city staff on their excellent handling of negotiations. The Gazette has learned that Carma Developments had made Allarco an offer last week, only to discover that St. Albert already held first option. Administration was congratulated on efforts on behalf of the city, "particularly" said Ald. Liesbeth Bakker "since the land is not yet within St. Albert boundaries."

The new land will become Campbell Stage Three when completely developed, augmenting Campbell Stages One and Two. But the city's business coordinator, Dale Huntingford, was not exactly sure how much buyers would have to pay per acre in the new site. Costs, he said, have gone down from the initial stages of Stage One, already more than half occupied.

"In Stage One they ran between $40,000 and $45,000 depending on rail lines with costs in later stages of completion much lower," he said. "I expect they'll be around $30,000 with about 100 acres of saleable land."

The city, he feels, should get an adequate return on the purchase price and costs of development, as local improvements will be added on to taxes when the subdivision is complete. Business and property taxes will bring in an estimated $9,000 per acre per year or $900,000 on the total project when it is completed.

As in Stages One, Two, Stage Three will house light industrial firms including warehousing and enclosed manufacturing with space available for offices. Roads will be totally put in and completed with the major thoroughfare to be Campbell Road connecting to 156 Street.

The demand for light industrial parks is high, said Mr. Huntingford, and based on conceptual designs the park should have room for about 25 to 30, 1.5 to 10 acre parcels. He expects the first tenants to move in, during the early part of 1981 and if the market continues to move at its present pace, the park should have no vacancies by 1985.

A sneaky blow to boredom!

A couple of young fellows around town got tired of being bored.

How can we put an end to boredom - horrible affliction of teens?, they wondered. And then the light came on!

"We'll rock it away!" We'll go down to Akinsdale Arena, take our own music and put on a skate party."

When those skaters get warmed up to the music provided by Crazy Ed Berg the old boredom bug will sneak out the back door.

The people down at city hall said they would be happy to co-operate. They hate boredom too.

So the show was on the road.

The skating party is for kids 16 years and over and it goes from 10:30 to midnight November 10.

Admission is only one buck and there are free record giveaways.

Crazy Ed has a long, lean, silent partner in this venture - watch out for him (girls especially!).

Council wants to know

Do businessmen want parking meters?

St. Albert council has deferred a decision to adopt parking restrictions in the downtown area until it has received feedback from the city's businessmen. An administration report indicating two alternatives for parking restrictions, signing or meters, and their respective costs will be forwarded to the Business Industrial Advisory Board with a report expected by the end of November.

While not officially endorsing either meters or signs, council did appear to lean toward meters as an immediate short term cure for the city's downtown parking problems. The area which would be affected would be St. Anne Street from St. Albert Road to Perron Street; Perron Street from Spruce River to St. Thomas Street (south of the Perron Street Arena) and the entire length of St. Michael Street. Signs could be added later.

According to the report, meters would cost $14,000 per year to maintain while signs would cost $17,200 but the initial capital costs to install meters would be $40,000 as opposed to the $4,000 required for the signs. The advantage of meters is that they would provide revenue, but administration could only roughly estimate the amount which could be generated.

At 25 cents an hour with all meters utilized at all times from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday to Saturday the maximum amount of revenue which could be generated per year would be approximately $650 per meter or $45,000 totalled. The report noted, though, that this figure was optimistic and in all likelihood, revenue would be less.

Council defeated a motion by Ald. Liesbeth Bakker that the Board be provided with all information including past-council decisions on downtown parking restrictions in addition to the report so that businessmen "could get the total picture. I'd like to avoid hassle later on, and they should definitely be made aware that there are two options."

Ald. Rod Thronson and Roger Ayotte suggested that the businessmen were already aware of the parking problem and had come to council in the first place to request that something be done about it. They felt the issue could get bogged down and confused if large amounts of material was presented since all council really wanted to know if there should be meters or not.

"If we give them one big package they're likely to start a Royal Commission on their own," said Mr. Ayotte. "We want to know if they want meters. Other alternatives are long range."

Let's get a hold on reality

The tempest in a teacup over "subliminal" advertising has blown up once again. This time, a filmmaker in the employ of the B.C. government, making a film on child abuse, has raised the hue and cry. This seemingly sensible woman has taken exception to a photograph which the government asked her to incorporate into the film. The controversial photo depicts a large male hand enclosing a small childish hand. Granted, the picture does have a sinister tone to it, due to its black background and the vulnerability of the small hand at the mercy of the large hand. In this, the picture blackly underscores the power that the adult has over the child, a theme that seems a reasonable one for a film on child abuse.

However, the filmmaker's criticism of the picture does not concern itself with anything as obvious as its background, or other aesthetic details. Her complaints are not that provable. Instead, she has assembled a team of psychologists, artists, psychiatrists and advertising experts. All these notables agree with her that there are definitely several obscenities lurking in the photo. With a straight face, the filmmaker says that S-E-X can be seen spelled out on the adult's forefinger. A familiar Anglo-Saxon word, usually seen on fences, is said to be printed across the knuckles. Next, the experts will be saying that the entire text of "Lady Chatterly's Lover" is printed on the child's pinky!

Now this is all just too much. Child abuse is a pervasive evil, and its evidence is all too visible. No imagination is needed to see the broken limbs and small bruised bodies. They can be found in any emergency ward. Yet the people being paid to combat this problem choose to occupy their time searching for dirty messages in photographs. Some of their assumptions are absurd when the picture in question is examined. It is another case of the "subliminalists" stating "The dirty words are there but you'll have to take our word for it as they are invisible." So is the Great Pumpkin, but most adults do not choose to believe it. The human hand is a mass of tiny converging lines and whorls, probably enough for one of these experts to see the whole of Gone with the Wind written in it. This does not mean it is. As usual, the subliminalists are merely providing fodder for starved imaginations.

Presumably, the experts who have made these assertions advise patients every day. Ye gods, the poor patient! For him the writing is truly on the wall, not to mention his fingers, nose, toes etc. However, these experts need not fear for their futures. With the imaginative and obscene turn of mind they have exhibited in regard to the contentious photo, they can always go to work as writers. They would no doubt top the best-seller list.

Waters, Waters Everywhere

Peter Lougheed and Pierre Trudeau are probably two of the most forceful men in the country. As adversaries, they were so well matched as to make their confrontations seem almost fated. And maybe they were. It has so far escaped media attention that the two gentlemen in question even share the same names. The Christian name is obvious but they share a common family name as well. In French, Trudeau means literally "waterhole". In the language of the Scots, a lough, as in Lougheed is the same thing - a body of water. With leading names like this, it's no wonder the country's totally at sea and in danger of going under!

A HEATED DISCUSSION- OVER A BARREL

Christian labour local applies for certification

Edmonton Construction Workers Association Local 63 affiliated with the Christian Labour Association of Canada (CLAC) submitted an application for certification to the Board of Industrial Relations on behalf of the employees of Wallingham Electrical Limited. This Calgary-based firm employs electricians and apprentices who are presently working in Fort Saskatchewan, Wetaskiwin and Edmonton. The Edmonton site is located on the corner of Jasper Avenue and 105 Street.

C. J. Vanderlaan, CLAC's Alberta representative, said that a majority of the employees had requested CLAC's Local 63 to represent them.

Vanderlaan at the same time announced that the organization's Local 65 had recently concluded a collective agreement with Getkate Construction Limited of Lethbridge. The new agreement covers labourers, carpenters, equipment operators and truck drivers. In addition to wage increases, the new agreement provides for improved health care benefits, travel time, and statutory holiday pay. Local 65 has represented the employees at this Lethbridgebased firm since 1968.

The Christian Labour Association of Canada is an independent Christian trade union representing workers in every trade of the construction industry. CLAC has locals in Lethbridge, Calgary, Grande Prairie, Neerlandia and Edmonton. Vanderlaan said that the union also has members in Medicine Hat, Brooks, Red Deer and Edmonton.

Waiting to emerge from our darkness

She was, I learned, as we stood peering into the darkness lit only by the headlights of speeding cars, reckless, released from obedience to gone-blind traffic lights - only 14 years old. Reed-slender, with a sensitive, lovely face foretelling a beauty soon to bloom, one could almost feel vibrations coming from her, like a string instrument silenced but still stirring the air.

"Aren't you cold?" I asked.

"Oh, no, I've got two shirts under this one." Then, "Isn't this blackout wonderful? Look at those stars!"

Startled, ashamed of my taut concentration on an overdue bus, I looked up. The stars were as low, as bright and pure in their dark setting as they are sometimes when I wake in the early hours of the night and see them over the ocean. As if they seem to be saving themselves for silences.

"There's Orion and his sword."

She pointed with a long, white finger.

"Yes. Did you know that astronomers tell us a baby star will emerge from the constellation Orion and be visible to the naked eye in about twenty thousand years?" This, my contribution.

"Oh? No, I didn't."

She thought about this crumb of information I had gleaned from a recent item in a newspaper.

"Did you," she countered, "know, that if by some miracle you could be up there on a star, and had a telescope powerful enough to see the Planet Earth, you would be seeing not us but dinosaurs? You see," she explained solemnly, "it takes a long time - millions of years, for light to travel from our earth to a star."

I considered this information as solemnly as it was offered. Could it be true? Could it be that we would not be here on this night, standing in a city-wide blackout, with no cars racing ahead, not heeding the scramblings of those trying to cross safely from one side to another? In our stead, mammoths, great birds, a cacophony of sounds long lost to us? And all in a setting of a steaming forest and great ferns and exotic flowers?

"Where," I asked, after a silence, "did you learn all this?"

"From my science teacher."

We should have been watching for the bus, but instead we were both, heads tilted, delighting in the stars.

And my shoulders were suddenly unburdened, as if I had been carrying a sack of heavy stones now fallen to the ground.

If an astronomer should, by chance, come upon these words, I beg forgiveness for inaccuracies of time and distance; I beg indulgence for minuscule truths wrapped in the fancies of a 14 year old and a woman so much older. The mathematics, the science, I leave for your dedicated, searching minds.

What is fascinating is to contemplate the idea that, as far as the observer from the distant star is concerned, I do not yet exist. Nor do my fellow companions of this small planet, who cling with me to its surface as it orbits. We are still to emerge from our own darkness into a communion with stars.

That is a dazzling thought, full of wonder and hope.

Bessie F. Collins.

Parade and service to commemorate war dead

This weekend, the sacrifice of lives in World Wars will once again be commemorated in St. Albert. On Sunday, November 11, people will gather at the Cenotaph on Sir Winston Churchill Avenue to salute those men who gave their lives in the battle against oppression.

Remembrance Day ceremonies will get underway with a parade from Grandin Shopping Centre to the Cenotaph. The parade group is to assemble at 10:30 a.m. and will move out at 10:35 a.m. At one minute to 11 a.m. the Remembrance Service will begin, with a March Past at 11:20. The salute will be taken by Lt. Col. A. R. Gebauer, commanding officer of the Northern Alberta Militia District.

Several local organizations and area squadrons will participate in the ceremony. Branch 271 of the Royal Canadian Legion will of course be out in full force, along with the Legion Auxiliary and the Legion Associates. Also taking part will be the RCMP, the 20th Field Regiment; 533 Royal Canadian Air Cadet Squadron from St. Albert; the Royal Canadian Sea Cadets of Edmonton, as well as several troops of Brownies, Guides, Cubs and Scouts. Several local service clubs will also be represented.

Individuals joining in the laying of wreaths will include MLA Myrna Fyfe; St. Albert Mayor Ronald Harvey; Len Jones of the local Legion; Shirley Sorsdahl of the Legion Auxiliary; Lt. Col. Gebauer; Capt. R. C. Wylie of the 742 Communications Squadron; and B. Gudmanson, president of the Legion Associates. As she does every year, Silver Cross Mother Mrs. Maude Potter will lay a wreath on behalf of mothers who have lost sons in distant battles. (For more on Mrs. Potter, see story, this issue).

The Saturday night previous, the Legion will hold the dance that it traditionally stages the day before Remembrance Day.

RCMP to lead Remembrance Day parade

By Vern Tompkins

On Sunday, November 11, the public could witness what is shaping up to be the largest Remembrance Day parade ever to be held in St. Albert. Off duty RCMP have indicated they will be there, followed by the Royal Canadian Legion color party, Legionnaires in large numbers, Royal Canadian Legion Auxiliary, a platoon from 742 Communication Squadron, CFB Edmonton, and St. Albert Air Cadet Squadron - Alberta's top air cadet squadron three years running. This year we will be honored with the presence of the Warrior Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corp. who will also have a band in the parade. The Cubs, Scouts, Guides and Brownies and all the service clubs of St. Albert have all received an invitation to participate.

Mrs. M. Potter, our Silver Cross Mother will lay the first wreath at the Cenotaph, and Lt. Col. A. Gebauer, newly appointed commander of Northern Alberta Militia District will again be the reviewing officer.

The public is cordially invited to join all participants, of the parade, at the cenotaph at 10:55 a.m. November 11 for the annual Remembrance service.

The Legion gratefully acknowledges the co-operation of the United Church, who, due to the blocking of the approach road to the church, have offered to delay their 11:15 morning service until 11:30 or as soon as the parade moves off.

IF YOU CAN'T REMEMBER - THINK!

Hallowe'en fire causes thousands in damage

A fire at 23 Langley Avenue on hallowe'en evening caused a large amount of damage to the first and second floor of one-half of a semi-detached home.

St. Albert Fire Department Chief George Todd estimated the damage at $25,000 saying that could be quite conservative.

Fire officials have not established a cause for the blaze, but one theory is a "jack-o-lantern" with candle that was near the front window could have started the fire.

Curtains on the living room window were the first to go up in flames, and a man in the house tried to put it out with a towel. However, the towel itself caught on fire, and the living room soon broke out in flames. The heat in the room shattered the large window.

No one was injured in the blaze, and the fire department was able to protect the other half of the semi-detached home.

Firemen also answered a home fire the afternoon before, as a pan of grease caught on fire and sent flames past the range hood fan, through the ducts, and into the attic.

A large amount of damage was sustained by the attic, but most of the house on Georgia Place was saved from the wrath of the fire, apart from a small amount of smoke and water damage.

No one was injured in the blaze.

Reporter recovering

Gazette reporter Jeff Adams, injured in an auto accident last week, is now at home and resting (?) comfortably after spending almost a week in Edmonton's Royal Alexandra Hospital.

Jeff will be wearing a full leg cast for a couple of months, but that isn't expected to keep him down and out for very long. At least not around here at the office.

He told us he's rather anxious to get back on the beat covering council and various other meetings. Why? ... we don't know.

Anyhow, if you see him hobbling around, make sure you autograph his cast.

A POPPY-ULAR TASK

It may look like a molehill compared to a mountain but to the Legion Ladies Auxiliary President, Shirley Sorsdahl, it's the tip of the flower as the Legion has acquired 20,000 poppies to sell. Hope is they'll all be gone by the time Remembrance Day rolls by.

Wars leave tortured trails - mothers remember

November 11, 1979.

To some of the community's younger members, this date might seem unexceptional. To those with longer memories, however, there is no need to name this day Remembrance Day. For them, it is a day beyond forgetting.

Maude Potter is one of those with long and vivid memories. Wars have had a hand in shaping her life and tempering her spirit. At 84, this Silver Cross Mother can still recall the urgency of the Allied Cause, and understands better than most the need to commemorate the lives lost in that cause. Once again, this year, Maude Potter will place a wreath on the St. Albert cenotaph to commemorate the lives and spirits of the war dead -- her own boys and those of others.

As a Silver Cross Mother, Maude Potter is a woman who has endured the loss of a son overseas. One of the Potter sons lies buried in Italy, while another son died five years ago of old war injuries complicated by disease. In addition to the tragedies of war, Mrs. Potter has lost a daughter by car accident, and another son by drowning. Her husband died in 1960.

From her days as a young woman, Mrs. Potter's life has been at the mercy of the fortunes of war. Her husband was a soldier in the Great War, and she herself came to Canada as a war bride in 1918. After a long and active family period, during which she raised 11 children, she now lives a more tranquil life in her Edmonton apartment -- that is, as tranquil a life as one can have when one is a proud Grandma to 38 grandchildren and 29 great-grandchildren! One son, Alex, resides in St. Albert, and is always on hand to take his mother to the Cenotaph each year. As always, Mrs. Potter will be on hand for the Legion Ball to be held November 10.

Because she has not lost touch with the veterans that fought alongside her sons, Maude Potter has become a beloved figure at Branch 271 of the Royal Canadian Legion in St. Albert. When the Legion needed someone special to cut the ribbon at their new hall, they asked Maude Potter to do the honours. She still treasures the ceremonial scissors given to her as a memento of the occasion.

About six years ago, Mrs. Potter joined a small group of Silver Cross Mothers on a pilgrimage to the burial sites of their sons. It was the first time such a group of women have made such a tour. Starting in England, they journeyed to all countries in Europe in which their sons lie buried.

"It was a sad time," says Mrs. Potter but in an odd way it was relaxing."

On Sunday, November 11, Maude Potter will join the crowd at the St. Albert Cenotaph to pay tribute to the sons, fathers, brothers and husbands who gave their lives to the fight against tyranny. Maude will represent the Silver Cross Mothers. Few people are more qualified for the honour.

Six-lane highway will up taxes

Tax implications for the city's cost sharing of Highway 2 reconstruction are estimated to be $1.5 million according to an administration enquiry requested by council and accepted as information Monday night.

For the average resident, the assessment has been set at $36,612, which translates into a $15.78 increase in taxes in 1979 dollars, to support the six-lane highway costs to the city. The formula is 90-10, with the Province paying 90%.

In 1980 and subsequent years, the amount will reduce and the assessment will increase. The city is expected to invest $1.5 million of its Debt Reduction Grant and use the interest at 12 percent to cover early years of construction costs on Highway 2 corridor.

COUNCIL IN THE DARK

Council was forced to sit through two power outages Monday night but the meeting carried on.

The first outage came as council was discussing who would represent the city on the Edmonton and Rural Auxiliary Hospital and Nursing Home District #24. Council continued its discussion, oblivious to the blackout.

Lights came on after about three minutes but went out again for about five minutes during coffee break.

LIMOUSINE SERVICE APPROVED

Council has approved a request from Sturgeon Cabs Ltd. to operate a limousine service to the Industrial Airport from a designated area within the transit terminal.

Signs will be posted, at no charge to the company, indicating that a limousine airport service and taxi service parking zone is available. No exclusive license will be given and the zone will be open to any taxi or limousine service which wishes to operate from the terminal.

PARKING LOT METERING

Costs to meter the Fountain Park Recreation Centre parking lot will be included in the city's 1980 budget. Council voted Monday not to deal with the metering immediately, since a roadway running on the east side of the parking lot, opposite Sunset Boulevard, would cost $15,000 to construct, and should be dealt with in next year's budget.

city hall this week

MISSION PARK RINKS

Council has accepted as information the administration's recommendation that Mission Park rinks not be opened until a decision is made to replace the hockey rink.

Public works was forced to demolish the hockey and skating rinks boards when it was found they were in a complete state of disrepair. Funds are not available to replace the boards, with costs estimated to be $20,000.

A 12-inch border planned for the social rink was suggested by council as being too low, especially for small children with a higher set of boards, not necessarily hockey regulation size; recommended instead.

CREST FOR MAYOR'S STATIONARY

The St. Albert city crest will now adorn the top left corner of the mayor's stationary complementing the city's logo already present in the right hand corner.

Seven designs for the city flag, some incorporating the city crest, others depicting the mission, will be presented for council's approval at the November 19 meeting.

SIGNALS TO REMAIN INACTIVE

Traffic signals at St. Vital and St. Albert Road will not be activated until the median is built, or the Regional Shopping Centre opens; whichever comes first.

SUMMER PLAYGROUND USER FEE REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

A proposal to institute an as yet undetermined user fee for St. Albert Summer Playgrounds has been referred to the Joint Use Committee for a report expected by the end of November.

TRANSIT DEBENTURE BYLAW REPEALED

Since money was found under a provincial government transit grant council has dropped the idea borrowing money to purchase three new transit coaches. Council repealed the debenture bylaw, authorized in December 1978, in favor of grant which made borrowing unnecessary.

THIRD READINGS DELAYED

Council has given first and second reading to bylaws for the adoption of the city's Land Use Bylaw and to bylaws reinstituting the Development Appeal Board (DAB) and the Municipal Planning Commission (MPC).

Council failed to receive unanimous consent needed for third reading of the DAB and MPC bylaws which must be in place before the Land Use Bylaw can be adopted.

PUMP HOUSE TO MOVE

The Mission Park Sewage

Pumping Station will be moved from its present location on the west side of St. Albert Road, across the highway and north of the present site.

Built over 25 years ago, the station has reached its capacity and must be doubled in size to accommodate sewage from the Regional Shopping Centre, the River Crest housing complex, the impending annexation of areas to Villeneuve Road and the expected development of Inglewood Park.

Council approved administration recommendations that Stanley Associates Engineering Ltd. be appointed to prepare design drawings and specifications over the next few months at a cost of $40,000. This will allow tenders to be called for and construction to be completed in 1980.

THRONDSOON APPOINTED COUNCIL REP

Ald. Rod Throndsen has been appointed as St. Albert's representative on the Edmonton and Rural Auxiliary Hospital and Nursing Home District #24 Board. This is the first time St. Albert has had representation on the board.

Man arrested in hit and run

St. Albert RCMP arrested 22 year old Donald Bruce Rae of Edmonton in connection with a reported hit and run incident in the St. Albert Inn parking lot back on October 30.

A parked car had been struck in the rear and pushed into the wall of the hotel, causing extensive damage.

Two days later, a suspect vehicle was spotted and its owner interviewed. The interview led to the arrest of Rae.

Following are some sights that I have not missed seeing while having minor eye trouble:

- the elegant front entrance to Jasper Auto Parts.
- the site of the regional shopping centre, which by now should have been teeming with commerce;
- the first bits of snow and ice;
- the three grocery buggies that for the past three years have been left to wallow in the Sturgeon River by the Perron Street Bridge.

- The grim, hostile faces in the shopping malls that tell us Christmas joy is nearly upon us. Neither do I miss the sight of store Christmas decorations which are put up hard on the heels of pumpkins and witches.

- Channel Five on Monday nights at 7:30. However, some masochistic instinct led me to listen to council's deliberations. Unfortunately, the administration of city business is no less befuddling when observed semi-blind.

- the Grandin Mall parking lot on Saturday at 2 p.m.
- the intersection of St. Anne and Perron Streets which is equally hazardous for the sighted or the less than sighted. Strictly for suicides.

- the pedestrian obstacle course that is Plain's Freeway (St. Michael Street).

- the parking lots of all shopping malls as they seem to have become a Last Resting Place for litter.

- I am delighted to be unable to view any of the following programs. (Actually, it is doubtful whether I would watch them at all, but a TV editor has to make some sacrifices). These programs can no longer hurt me: ITV News, A New Kind of Family; Three's a Crowd; the Newlyweds; the Dukes of Hazzard; the Misadventures of Sheriff Lobo; Out of the Blue; 240 Robert; that awful show, the name of which eludes me, about Ponch and his buddy, the magical motorcycle cops; Happy Days Again, (and again and again), Stars on Ice (which is where this show should be); Charlie's Angels; California Fever; Struck by Lightning, Johnnie Carson; Salvage One (I dare anyone to salvage this turkey!); Trapper John MD; Three's Company; the King of Kensington; Elschied; and Shirley to name a paltry few. In addition, I do not have to take

Five charged with dangerous driving

As a result of numerous complaints from residents in the Lacombe Park area of St. Albert, five people were charged with dangerous driving.

On hallowe'en night at about 7:30, five motorcycles were spotted racing around the streets while children were out trick or treating.

Several children were almost hit as the bikes were travelling at high speeds.

An investigation resulted and charges of dangerous driving and failing to stop for a police officer were laid against Jason Swist, Cameron Swist, Wayne Bokenfohr, Kevin McKinstry and Daniel Majeau, all of the St. Albert area.

The five will be appearing in court Wednesday, November 28 for plea.

so much as a glance at the NHL, the NFL, the AFL, the WBA, or any of the other leagues and associations that lurk out there to destroy weekend TV. Neither am I particularly downcast at the loss of games shows. With the exception of CBC's "Beyond Reason," all game shows should be prohibited from the airwaves, with heavy penalties levied. A suitable punishment might be sentencing the culprit to a 10 year period of constant game show watching.

-For all his boyish charm, I definitely won't miss seeing Jim Perry, the man with the reversible hair. (Now black, formerly red, formerly grey). Mr. Perry turns up at altogether too many Canadian events and presides over them with all the finesse of Lenny and Squiggy at a Buckingham Palace Garden party. Through his own shows, he is inflicted upon us too much as it is. "Definition" is a good idea for a game show, but Mr. Perry can be downright embarrassing. On the other hand, I guess I shouldn't complain too audibly about our TV fare. They might decide to favour us with a showing of Jaina, as they are on Channel 11!

-Wednesday will bring me a special reason to keep my eyes shut. At any newspaper, publication time means staffers face the consequences of any inadvertent errors made in their effort to get the news out. Typos can leave a reporter red faced, even mortified (if such a thing is possible for the average reporter). When I worked on another paper, the staff endured public snapping and sniggering over a few doozies. The loss leader for a grocery store came out "freshly killed children at $1.29 a pound" (please read chickens) and a long and libellous news story led off by describing the plight of a "dumb truck driver" (please read dump truck driver). You never forget the sight of a whopper like this as it leers out of the page. If this Wednesday holds any such nightmares, at least they will be well blurred from my perspective. However, I know that I very seldom, if ever, make such blunders. And you can take that to the bank!

- programs for us

New TV director has many plans for local television

Sandra Whitlow brings to St. Albert's community television station a background of training and experience and a lot of enthusiasm for her new job as program director for Capital Cable's station here.

"I'd like to see programs for us - produced by us," she told the Gazette Monday. So she is presently at work to find out what kind of things people want to see - and also what kind of programs people want to participate in.

Sandra already has plans for some new shows and for improvements to the set in St. Albert.

"I want to try for a warm community flavour," she said, "we could be unique here, and the smallness of the city can work to an advantage." This comment followed a discussion on public feedback shows, and some of the work by Phil Fraser and others in this field.

Plans also include video workshops in the next season, something Sandra has training and experience in teaching.

And a particular interest of Cable 5's new program manager is drama. She is planning to work with the local high school teachers with a view to doing some drama once a month. "For the benefit of aspiring actors and video technicians, I'd really like to get into some drama."

Sandra met station manager Ernie Poscente during the Summer Games. "We both believe in what Ernie calls 'watchability,'" she said. "You can produce and produce - but if nobody's watching...?"

And she hopes to work with Community Services people at city hall. "We could offer them things on the channel and give them some help."

Ms. Whitlow attended Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas which she said is "big in arts, but small in the film department. At SMU she wrote, produced and directed seven short films. One, "Night Journey" received honorable mention at the Galveston Film Festival. Prior to that she had done some newspaper writing. An accident interrupted her education and she afterwards got into a course in television writing - and "fell in love with it."

In St. Albert she has two local students helping her, both attending St. Joseph's High School in Edmonton. Garnet Boutette has three years with the station and is into some production work - Sandra feels both young men have talent and good ideas.

Channel 10 will help - our channel is an affiliate she said, and in the area of sports she also likes to work with out-of-town stations, and knows some people at Medicine Hat. Working together they can exchange tapes to bring both local and out-of-town games to the fans.

Hobbies are horses, photography and Afghan hounds and Ms. Whitlow has a Welsh Mountain pony and a thoroughbred quarter horse which are housed at Manor Stables - close to St. Albert so she and her seven year old daughter can enjoy lots of riding.

Before coming to St. Albert and settling in Grandin Village she had always lived on a farm, but both Sandra and her daughter are enjoying their new home very much.

Get out the welcome mat - gym kids calling

Youngsters from the St. Albert Gym Club will be around the streets and crescents starting this weekend asking for pledges for the Alberta-wide gymathon in which all clubs in the province take part.

Then, after their tests for strength and flexibility, they will call back to collect, in accordance with how they score.

This is the major fund-raising event for the gym clubs. Thirty per cent of the funds raised go to the Alberta Gymnastics Federation and 70 per cent to the local club for equipment needs and operating funds.

This year the Alberta Gymnastics Federation is sponsoring a special prize for the youngster who raises the most money. He or she will be given a trip to Toronto to take in the World Gymnastics competitions this year. The local club also awards a prize for most tickets sold.

Oil from weeds

A team of scientists in the United States is analyzing about 300 species of plants as possible sources of hydrocarbons which form the basis of motor fuels, rubber, paint and plastics.

An American government official says we are at the point where it is economical to make petroleum out of many plants which we now consider to be weeds. In fact, it is possible with existing technology to extract 10 barrels of high grade oil from an acre of common desert milkweed. The cost is between $17 and $20 a barrel which is considerably cheaper than the present world price of oil.

CABLE 5 DIRECTOR

Sandra Whitlow is the new director at St. Albert's Cable 5 Studio in Sturgeon Plaza. Sandra has several plans for the studio including work with high school drama and exchange work with other stations.

The St. Albert Arts and Crafts Guild has expanded its hours of business in its Gallery on Sunset Boulevard. The new hours are: Wednesday 7 - 9 p.m., Thursday 7 - 9 p.m., Saturday 1 - 4 p.m. and Sunday 1 - 4 p.m.

USED CLOTHING NEEDED SCHOOLS ASSISTING

The Vietnamese staging area at Griesbach base is desperately short of winter clothing to outfit the "boat people" enroute to their Canadian destinations.

Both Separate and Public Schools have generously volunteered to be collection depots for good used clothing, during the month of November.

Please check your closets and drop your items in the marked box in the front entrance or designated area at your nearest school. Items should be clean and in good repair. Should the garment require dry cleaning before use, please tag it. Coats, sweaters and slacks for all ages, and in particular men's pants (small sizes) are most urgently needed.

SENIOR CITIZENS

Ticket-holders are reminded of the Old Time Dance which will be held on Friday, November 9.

Liz Hallet, Home Care Coordinator, will be the guest speaker after the weekly lunch on Thursday, November 8. Everyone is invited to attend at around 1 p.m. to hear Liz speak on the important subject of Home Care.

Lunches, supplied through the Meals-on-Wheels programme, are served every Thursday at the Senior Citizens Centre. Phone Olga Buma (459-8309) or Jenny Allen (458-0472) for information.

OPEN HOUSE

★ The Board of Directors of the Citadel Theatre invites you to attend an Open House at the theatre on Saturday, November 10 between 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. to help celebrate our 15th anniversary season. Events include: an historical display and slide show; free performances of the Citadel on Wheels; free films in the Zeidler Hall; "Don't Shoot the Critic" with Peter Coe; drama workshop demonstrations; tours, dancing and music and a slice of birthday cake and coffee.

Support the Health Unit

Those kids need measle protection!

The Sturgeon Health Unit began a measles revaccination program this week for school children.

The need for this program was recognized following the high incidence of red measles in children age 5-14 years during 1978-79. Studies strongly suggest that the inactivated (killed) measles vaccine used during 1960 and as late as 1970 has played a significant role in the epidemic.

Measles is a communicable but preventable disease. Live measles virus vaccine has been used extensively in North America since 1963. This experience indicates it has been effective as its introduction has been followed by a significant decrease in the incidence of measles. Reactions to the vaccine are minimal but occasionally mild fever and/or rash may occur.

Students in grades one to nine will be involved in the revaccination program. Unless a child has been diagnosed by a physician as having had the disease, red measles, the student should have the live measles vaccine. Also, if a child received the vaccine before 12 months of age, or within five years of having had killed vaccine, the student should be revaccinated. Generally, students grade 4 to 9 fall into this last category.

IMMUNIZATION MONTH

of November. November is "Immunization Month" across Canada. It is hoped that this promotional campaign will create public awareness as to the importance of measles immunization. The result - a greater number of children will receive protection against this disease.

Ideally, live measles vaccine should be given to infants as soon as possible after the first birthday. However, in 1978, only 73% of children in the Sturgeon Health Unit area were protected with live measles vaccine by 2 years of age. This indicates the need for making parents more aware of the serious complications of measles in children under 3 years of age, such as pneumonia, ear infection, or encephalitis (inflammation of the brain). Children who have not received vaccine during infancy may be immunized at any age during childhood or adolescence.

Community Health Nurses request the assistance of all school personnel, students, and parents in the distribution and return of consent letters addressed to parents. Only the parents of school children who may require the vaccine will receive the consent form.

Please direct your questions to the Sturgeon Health Unit office in your area:

Disabled may apply for scholarship

The Donna Graham Memorial Scholarship Fund was established in 1972 after the death of Donna Graham. She was a severely disabled polio victim who was skilled in crafts and mouth painting.

This Memorial Fund is given out each year to Alberta residents that are deserving disabled artists with skills in crafts, painting, music, writing, etc. The Scholarship Fund this year is considerably larger than in 1978.

Applications will be accepted until December 5, 1979. Please forward two samples of your work and a short auto-biography to: Donna Graham Fund, c/o Canadian Paraplegic Association, #302, Kingsway Garden Mall, Edmonton, Alberta, T5G 3A6.

give cadets an insight into electronics theory along with a little practical work. The course will explain to cadets

Admitting Clerk

An immediate position is available for a part time Admitting Clerk/Receptionist. Applicants must be able to type accurately and possess a minimum of Grade 12 education.

Apply in writing to: Mr. J. M. Boyes, Director of Finance, Sturgeon General Hospital, 78 McKenney Avenue, St. Albert, Alberta. T8N 1L9.

We are very proud at Lorne Akins to tell you about our Foster Child who we have sponsored for the past two years. Her name is Yun Mai Ri, a 14 year old Korean girl who is described as "polite and faithful to her duties."

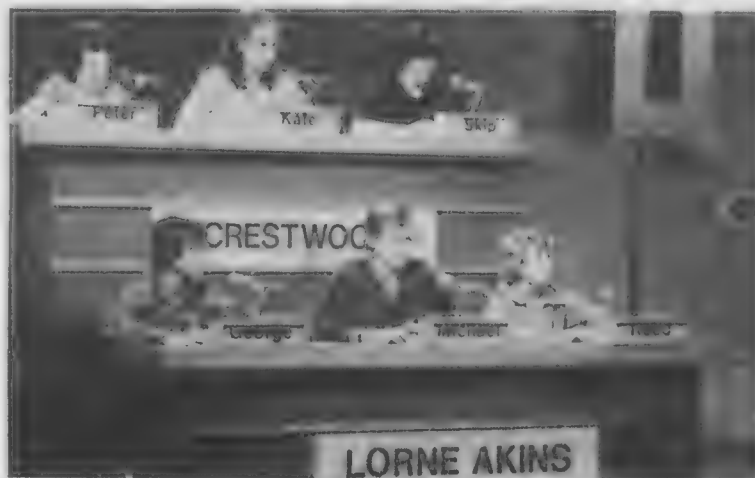

The Christian Children's Fund has sent us a little "report card" and it looks like she is an average student in all her grades. She is presently in what is called "middle School" (our Grade 8 or 9) and in addition to regular school subjects, is responsible for things such as laundry, cooking, cleaning, and her favorite responsibility, that of gardening.

Her hobbies include music, reading, swimming and crafts, but gardening remains her favorite. She can be seen in the picture along with some other family members at work in the garden.

Our greatest pride comes from the fact that she is the second Foster Child that Lorne Akins has sponsored, and that through our support, she, like the first one, has become a healthy and happy individual. Problems of health and malnutrition have disappeared for her and her family.

1979 is the International Year of the Child! Isn't Yun Mai Ri what this year is all about?

SKATE-A-THON

The Kinsmen Club of St. Albert is again organizing this fund raising event.

November 12 is the registration deadline for participation. This year, however, it is planned to make the event a family effort. In other words, if a beaver, cub or scout has a sister, the sister may also skate provided she is registered with her brother's group. The same conditions apply to parents. Let's turn out in force and support this commendable effort. ONE THIRD OF ALL MONIES raised by anyone skating for Scouting, will be returned to the group. This is a fun way of raising those extra dollars that are always in demand!!

Registration forms are available from Ann Giorgi at 458-5549, leaders please read your November newsletter for further details.

INVESTITURE NIGHT 9th ST. ALBERT BEAVERS AND CUBS

Thursday, November 8 is an important night for the 9th St. Albert Beavers and Cubs. The 9th is a new group and apart from the investiture of leaders and boys, the colours and flags of the 9th will be dedicated on that night.

The sponsors of the 9th St. Albert, are the IODE who have undertaken to sponsor the 9th as part of their International Year of the Child commitment. In recognition of their support, the 9th St. Albert scarves carry the colours of the IODE emblem, navy blue, red and white.

The district commissioner, Ari Vandenbos, the IODE, the parents of the Beavers and Cubs involved and many others have been invited to attend this important occasion.

The 9th is well underway with weekly meetings being held for Beavers and Cubs at the Akinsdale Clubhouse.

We are proud to welcome them and wish them, Good Scouting.

REMEMBRANCE DAY PARADE - NOV. 11th

Don't forget that on Nov. 11th leaders and boys will be participating in the parade to and from the Cenotaph and will remain for the ceremonies.

Assembly time at the Grandin Shopping Centre parking lot is 10:30 a.m. sharp, or 10:40 a.m. if very cold. After the ceremonies, at approx. 11:30 leaders and boys will parade back to the Grandin Shopping Centre parking lot.

Hot chocolate will be served at the Royal Canadian Legion hall for leaders and boys.

Scouting Awards recipients

Mies and Ari Vandenbos of St. Albert were recently presented with awards for scouting work by Alberta's new Lieutenant Governor Fran Lynch-Staunton. Mies (on the right) was presented with a Certificate for Good Service and Ari accepted The Medal of Merit. The ceremonies took place in Government House in Edmonton.

St. Albert High Lites

By Monica Tap
Doom, dread, utter despair and other dismal disasters ... mid-terms are here. Ugh. Even fondling a tarantula would beat studying for exams. Cram, cram, concentrate and cram-math formulas, the French Revolution, and chemical reactions dance and whirl about in my brain, laughing at me. Despite my efforts to keep them in line, they always manage to jumble up together and then when the exam paper is handed out ... I don't even want to think about it.

But what else is there to think about? Ah yes, student sports reps; Louise Dollevoet, grade 10 rep., council elections. The election last week could be summed up in two words - very close - and that would be an understatement. Warren Coughlin (the dome) captured the presidency by two votes, and Monica Tap, the new vice, won by a mere eight votes. Sort of reminds you of the last federal election, doesn't it? Anyway, Gail Peters is now secretary; Debbie Pampu treasurer; Jill Lakeman, social convener; Sandy Shultz, publicity; Joce Curio and Paul Hoffart, Nicole Belley, grade 11 rep; and Suzy Stephenson (hey Suzy!) is the grade 12 representative. Congrats to everyone!

Next week, on the evening of November 14, St. Albert High will hold its annual

"Cuts" Corner

By Kerry Timms

GREETINGS! I hope the ghosts, goblins and others of the sort were all good this hallowe'en and enjoyed themselves.

The last few days have been busy ones at Cuts. The Students' Union hallowe'en dance on the 25th went off very well. The band, Rox-slyde, turned out to be all that was expected, and they helped make the dance even more enjoyable. The guys with the best costumes were Marc Delannoy and Michael Crosby; the girls were Danielle Cosens and Helen Smith. It was good to see so many people dressed up and in the hallowe'en spirit.

Our senior boys' volleyball team has done it again. They've lost! By a very narrow margin, however, and the Lorne Akins and V.J. Maloney teams were just lucky this time. "We'll show 'em, next time!"

It's very difficult to think of a good, original closing: See ya' later!

Awards Night. The way in which SAHS handles this night is unique. Not only are those students with high grades honored, students who participate in school activities, clubs and community affairs are presented with awards as well. Everyone is invited to this 'gala affair' - students, parents, friends, relatives, members of the community, dogs, cats, chickens ... well, maybe not the last three!

There, now that's all for this week, folks, I've got to get back to my 'night before the exam' cramming ... help.

Workshop West opens with intense play

Workshop West Playwrights' Theatre will open its second season on Thursday, November 15 at Victoria Composite High School's Theatre beside (10210 - 108 Ave.) with Of The Fields Lately by David French, winner of the Best Canadian Play Award in 1973.

"Of The Fields Lately" is a deeply moving and humorous play, with perhaps the most fully-fleshed characters in Canadian drama," says Artistic Director Gerry Potter. "Jacob, Wiff, Mary and Ben draw their vitality from their Newfoundland origins, yet any audience will recognize the crushing dilemmas in which this family is caught."

What happens when a son returns home two years after he has broken loose from his family's hold, seemingly for the purpose of attending an aunt's funeral, only to find that the same spectre of death now hangs over his immediate family? As in Leaving Home, French's highly acclaimed first play about the Mercers, we are once again drawn into the intense emotional struggles, the life sustaining wit, and the warmth of this transplanted Newfoundland family living in Toronto.

Barbara Reese, much touted for her role in Shadow Box last year at Theatre 3, joins Wendell Smith, Paul Whitney and Patrick McGuigan to make up the cast.

Critically praised for his handling of last season's On The Job, Gerry Potter returns to direct Of The Fields Lately.

This production of Of The Fields Lately is unique in that it is a co-operative venture between Workshop West's professional company, Victoria Composite High School and its drama department, and the Grant MacEwan Community College Theatre Production and Saturday, November 10 is going to be a time of fun, laughter, comradeship and Gemuetlichkeit at Holland House on Saturday, November 10.

The German festival, sponsored by the 'Blauen Funken'

Mardi Gras Association, features a floor show, followed by a smorgasbord and then dancing to 'The Boleros.'

It is a really fun evening, based on customs from olden times, with Prince 'Karneval' Princess 'Loveliness' and two court jesters in full regalia from ancient customs. Lots of wine and music, dancing and singing make the informal evening one to remember.

HOW IT ALL GOT STARTED

The word 'Carneval' is composed of the two latin words: 'Carnis' (Meat) and 'va'e' (farewell, goodbye) and therefore literally translated applies only to the day called in French 'Mardi Gras' (fat or shrove Tuesday) being the last day that it was allowed to eat meat, before the strict fasting regulations of the Lent season started.

Actually, the Mardi Gras season comprises the period of the time between November 11 and Ash Wednesday. The tradition dates back to Germany in medieval times, particularly in the Rhineland, where many counties existed under harsh rulers. Kings, princes and even smaller potentates each maintained their own Court and in doing so, in many cases competed with each other as to pomp and splendor, at the expense of course, of their population.

At the 'Karnevals-Time' the common people took a chance at 'living it up': choose a mock government - like the 11 jesters - selected a mock prince and princess to ostensibly rule the country during the Mardi Gras season. Current political features and their sovereigns were the target of the ridicule. Parade, dancing in the streets, masquerade balls and comical skirts filled the days and nights.

Germany is the most enthusiastic centre of Mardi Gras in Europe. Nearly every city, town and village has its own festivities.

For 10 years the Blauen Funken has brought folk festivals to Edmonton and Western Canada, and once each year all the groups gather for a super three-day festival held at different cities in Western Canada. For more information phone 424-0108 ext. 229.

Wagner's Dutchman has first for Edmonton

When Wagner's, The Flying Dutchman (Der Fliegende Holländer) is presented by the Edmonton Opera Association it will have many firsts. It will be the first time the Edmonton Opera has produced a work by Richard Wagner. It will be the first time Canadian Baritone, Victor Braun, has sung the title role. It will be William Wildermann's debut as a Stage Director.

The opera will be presented November 22, 24, 26, and 28, at the Jubilee Auditorium.

The Flying Dutchman is one of Wagner's most popular music dramas. Although it is filled with darkly beautiful music which surges and swells like the seas themselves, it is still in the early Italian style with a pure vocal line.

In addition to Victor Braun, the production will co-star Teresa Kubiak, one of the leading sopranos of the Metropolitan Opera in the role of Senta.

William Wildermann will not only direct, but will sing his widely acclaimed Daland. The young American Tenor, Dennis Bailey, has been cast as Erik and Canadians Roger Ohlsen and Audrey Glass will sing the roles of The Steersman and Mary.

Tickets for the The Flying Dutchman are on sale at the Opera Office - 10102 - 101 Street, Mikes Ticket Office - Jasper Avenue, Students' Union Box Office in HUB Mall and West Den Ticket Office - 15126 Stony Plain Road.

Top musicians start Music for Unicef

Sing along with Rita Coolidge, disco with the Bee Gees - it's all part of a new program called Music for Unicef and this year thousands of Canadian students will give "the gift of song."

It all started when the "founder composers," the Bee Gees, Kris Kristofferson, Rita Coolidge, Olivia Newton-John, Earth, Wind and Fire, John Denver, Donna Summer, Rod Stewart, Andy Gibb, and ABBA wrote and recorded a special song for Unicef. They all "got it together" at a "Music for Unicef Concert" at the United Nations General Assembly and now, thousands of students are following suit.

High schools across Canada are planning Music for Unicef concerts, carolling groups, special dances and "discos for dollars." The profits from their efforts go to Unicef to help provide medical care, education, clean water supplies, and food for children in developing countries. It's a "Gift of Song" from Canadian students to young people around the world.

Unicef will provide student councils, clubs and teachers with activity sheets and promotion tips. The Music for Unicef program is a great way to celebrate the International Year of the Child, or to help fund some of the ongoing programs initiated during the Year of the Child. It's fun and it's a unique way to share.

Books at the St. Albert Library

Llama Beans are what Llamas eat (of course). And it stands to reason that if you pour boiling water down a rabbit hole, you'll get "hot, cross bunnies." Suggested reading for parents of the 6-10 year old set - forewarned is forearmed... By Charles Keller.

Lest Innocent Blood Be Shed, written by a man in despair. Phillip Hallie, a philosopher, having studied man's cruelty to man and the tragedies of the Holocaust, had vacillated between emotional removal or despair (both extremes detrimental to his own humanity). Finally, he stumbled upon information about occurrences in the small, southern French village of Le Chambon, which was a refuge for escaping Jews during the war. Le Chambon, where Father Trocme and Edouard Theis (Huguenots) led and contributed to the whole village's non-violent, loving refusal to cooperate or contribute to the demands made by the enemy. They refused to lie to, or to fight against, or to harm any person - no matter their race, nationality or actions.

This book relays a study of love and compassion towards all men put into practical, immediate application. (For example, when the police came to arrest her husband and take him to an internment camp, it being super-time, Madame Trocme seated everyone, including police and fed them. When queried how she could offer her table to these people, how she "could be so forgiving and decent," she replied -- quite practically -- "What are you talking about? It was dinner time... we were all hungry. The food was ready. What do you mean by such foolish words as 'forgiving' and 'decent'." They did what was necessary when it needed to be done.

The village of Le Chambon showed how each human by his action, individually and cooperatively, has an affect on and can even change the tide of the times.

Strangers Among Us - Based on information gained from her Spirit Guides, Ruth Montgomery writes that amongst us, in our daily lives, are evolved beings referred to as "walk-ins." These are people who have returned to the earth plane to aid and guide us in the coming years - years predicted to be of great turmoil, strife and hardship. To aid us in perhaps such simple ways as renewing interest in gardening, breadmaking, carpentry -- ways to help us back to self-sufficiency and independence. Quiet, non-seeking people offering to share with us what they have learned, to help ease the pain learned, to help ease the paths for we who come behind.

Ghandi, George Woodcroft. A simple book to read, briefly outlining Ghandi's philosophic and active evolution of 'satyagraha' (the force of truth) and the situations and conditions under which this approach was tried and tested. Offers an evaluation of the contributions, successes and failures of Ghandi's beliefs and actions.

Lead, Kindly Light. Based on a few brief but intense meetings with Ghandi, Vincent Sheenan (a foreign correspondent and student of philosophy) has written this book analyzing the times and people that created the fertile circumstances for Ghandi's philosophies to be actively applied toward goals for his people and country.

Touch the Earth edited by T. C. McLuhan. A collection - some poetic, all profound - of speeches, observations, statements by many Indians over a period of many years. These were an attempt to communicate, to share with the white man the Indian belief/way of living but were disregarded and so, this way destroyed. Now, as we find ourselves turning more and more back to the earth and our relationship to and responsibility for it, these beliefs, this way of vision, shows the path and the reason.

The State of Rock Music

Rock music as we all know it today is the end product of diverse styles of music, culture, and of course, technology. It is rather difficult to write about this music, without, at least, a) being well grounded in its history, b) being a rock musician, c) being involved in the technological aspect of it. While I am not trying to discredit the validity, or the genuineness of the people involved in the creation of this music, the past few years have undoubtedly convinced me that we now live in an age where ignorance is bliss, apathy is life, and laziness is the order of the day. Of course, the conclusive result of this state of affairs has swift and rather unpleasant repercussions. The effect is further reaching than most people would care to admit. But, dear boy, enough digression

How do you make any kind of music at all? The answer is take lessons, privately or institutionally until one is proficient enough to call oneself a professional. My experience in the music teaching business has sadly uncovered pedagogic flaws...e.g. most teachers are in it to make money; and many teachers have no inkling in the first place about what they are supposed to be teaching. Some parents use a teaching facility as a musical babysitter while they go out to do their own thing. It is rather apparent who gets the short end of the stick in many instances....the kids.

When you start out playing rock, being proficient in the instrumental aspect is not quite enough. As a matter of fact, you have to know how this music came about in the first place.

Does the name Leslie Polluss mean anything to you? Clarence Leo Fender, Alfred Dronge, Adolphe Rickenbacker, James Marshall, Freddie Tavares, George Martin? If you do not know who these gentlemen are, then dear musician your education is only just begun.

The experts say that rock music is the final product of the fusion of Black Blues Music and White Country Music. The name rock and roll is said to have been coined by a DJ, Alan Freed, and the word 'Rock and Roll' is supposed to have come from a Muddy Waters recording.

While Elvis Presley was a legendary performer in his own time, my opinion is that he contributed only looks and swivelling hips to the business. If you like to disprove this theory then check out the old Elvis recordings....find out who the song writers were, who were the musicians, the sessions players, The Jordanaires, the gals, and all those other people who contributed in no small way to the Elvis phenomenon. Of course, Elvis was fabricated and sold to the Americans and the world just as disco is now being sold. Elvis peaked in his lifetime, and the great guy he was, he even parodied himself. While Elvis was riding high, great stylists like Carl Perkins, Johnny Cash, Link Wray, Bo Diddley, and Billy Halley were living in near obscurity, because they didn't have great managers like Col. Tom Parker behind them. Secondly, these guys didn't look so pretty either....but then, most people lack the natural instinctive facility to see below the surface.

The English invasion of the '60's gave rock music the needed incentive to get out of its own quagmire. There is no English rock as such. What the English guys did, was take the same old American music, recycle it, play it in a more intelligent manner, without frills or hype and sell it back to the Americans. Top English musicians....Ritchie Blackmore, Eric Clapton, Jeff Beck, Jimmy Page, Peter Green (the original founder of the well-known Fleetwood Mac), Long John Baldry, Alexix Korner, Elton John have said it in many interviews who were their influences at their formative stages. Unanimous answers...the black American Blues musicians. While I agree that most of these musicians went on to develop their own unique styles as time went along, the fact that they spoke the truth about who they copied shows that at least, the young people on the other side of the Atlantic have the facility to see deeper than the surface. To date, the English bands dominate the rock music scene ... The Beatles, The Stones, The Who, Led Zep, Deep Purple, Yes, Genesis, Jimi Hendrix (an American), and more recently, the New Wave/Punk rock bands ... Dire Straits, Pistols, Sad Cafe, Buzzcocks, The Jam, etc.

Like I used to say, the English musicians are not better than American or Canadian musicians, but they sure have that thing that makes great rock music. Without sounding big headed, and average English teenagers know more about rock than their North American counterparts. Riding in an English double decker bus one afternoon, I heard a couple of 12 year olds punch holes into Clapton's latest hot guitar solo, note for note, progression for progression and chord for chord, and they didn't even play....just regular record buyers. Led Zep reported bombed on their last English tour....they were guilty of giving to the English kids the same blige they pump out to American audiences.

Here is Simon's list of all time rock greats....Leslie Polluss (Les Paul), Leo Fender (Fender Music Man guitars), B.B. King, Scotty Moore, Billy Halley, Little Richard, Elvis Presley, Fats Domino, Ray Charles, Eric Clapton, Jimi Hendrix, Chuck Berry, Muddy Waters, James Marshall (Marshall amps), Peter Green, and others who will be mentioned in the next instalment of "The State of Rock".

Autumn sets tone for September wedding

The first mellow sunshine of autumn streaming through the stained glass windows of St. Albert Roman Catholic Church combined with the lilting soprano voice of Lennie Dauphinais, provided a radiant setting for the marriage of Caroline Jean Steel and Claude Regimbald on September 1, 1979. The bride is the youngest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Alan Steel of Bowmanville, Ontario and the groom is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Laurier Regimbald of St. Albert.

Given in marriage by her father, Dr. Alan Steel, Caroline was lovely in a floor length gown of champagne chiffon with wrist length sleeves, her bridal train held in place by a lace cap bedecked with seed pearls. Her bridal bouquet was a confection of ivory roses, ribbons and fern.

The four bridal attendants were, Karen Nagy, Sandy McKay and Bernadette Maruschuk of St. Albert and Cindy Thompson of Bowmanville, Ontario. Maid of Honor, Karen Nagy wore a lovely gown of chocolate brown silk with its own attached cape. Attired identically, the three bridesmaids were a picture in Grecian style gowns of burnt orange silk, with square-cut necklines. They each wore a circlet of orange feathered daisies and babies breath in their upswet hair. They carried tall brown tapers surrounded by bouquets of daisies and sweetheart roses and caught up in streamers of ivory satin ribbon edged in asparagus fern.

Claude was resplendent in a dark brown tuxedo which was complemented by the four groomsmen who were dashing in soft beige tuxedos accented by boutonniere burnt orange sweetheart roses boutonniere. Oliver Hartmetz of St. Albert was best man and groomsmen were Gordon Brown of St. Albert, Rob Stewart of Edmonton and Robert Bergevin of Calgary. As they turned to watch Caroline walk up the aisle on the arm of her father, Lennie Dauphinais accompanied by organist Mrs. Bertha Kennedy sang "A Long and Winding Road."

Completing the wedding party were eight year old Alissa Rankin of Mississauga, Ontario, niece of the bride and nine year old Marc Parent of St. Albert, cousin of the groom. They served in the respective roles of junior bridesmaid and junior bestman. Alissa was a delight in a dress of the same fabric and color as the bride. She carried a basket of daisies, orange sweetheart roses and babies breath.

Father Jake Joly officiated at the ceremony at which Claude and Caroline wrote their own wedding vows and which they read to each other. Mr. Marcel Bergevin of Calgary, gave one of the readings. John Dauphinais read a selection from Kahlil Ghibran's "The Prophet." Mrs. Aline Blackburn read "The Prayers of the Faithful." Mrs. Laurier Regimbald, mother of Claude, read "Parents' Prayer for their children's Wedding Day," of which she was the author. Musical selections were "The Wedding Song," "The Prayer of St. Francis" and as the newlyweds left the church

"You'll Never Walk Alone" was rendered by Lennie.

Following the ceremony, Claude and Caroline and wedding party gathered in the hushed grove by the Grotto to have their wedding pictures taken by George "Skip" Wheatley.

A reception was held at the Ukrainian Youth Unity Centre in Edmonton. To receive her guests, the mother of the bride, Mrs. Alan Steel wore a pale beige flowered chiffon gown with an orchid corsage. Mrs. Laurier Regimbald, mother of the groom, was attired in a floor length gown of teal blue shimmering silk with a gardenia corsage.

Mr. Marcel Bergevin, uncle of the groom acted as master of ceremonies for the occasion. Among the many toasts wishing happiness and health to the couple, was a toast to the bride by Bill Rankin of Mississauga, Ontario. Oliver Hartmetz, best man, gave the toast to the bridesmaids. The welcoming of Caroline into the Regimbald family was by Ronald Regimbald, brother of Claude and the welcoming of Claude into the Steel family was by Christopher Steel, brother of the bride; Jacqueline and Monique Regimbald, cousins of the groom entertained everyone with a medley of Strauss Waltzes on the accordion and violin.

Following the banquet a dance was held. Out of town guests hailed from Vancouver and various points in Ontario and Alberta. Following their honeymoon to Jasper and Banff, Caroline and Claude are making their home in St. Albert.

Local group plans to bring Vietnamese family here

The word CRISIS in Chinese has two meanings - either "danger" or "opportunity". For some people who live in Southeast Asia, it may have one meaning, and for some people who live in Canada, it may have another.

There is a group of people associated with St. Albert United Church who are valiantly co-ordinating the care and compassion shown by many in our community towards the Vietnamese refugees half a world away. Many of us are stunned by the tragic crisis of the boat people; some are frustrated by the political systems which have culminated in such a tragedy; a few are searching for ways in which to make a positive impact, however small, on a seemingly senseless event. Arrangements are proceeding for bringing a Vietnamese family to St. Albert.

Our efforts have been directed towards the coordination of the following: furniture and effects; clothing; accommodation; time; money; language and job training skills; and friendship.

Perhaps there are others in our community who have a need to be generous with these material goods or their talents in one way or another. If you find that you, too, have been searching for a meaningful and creative way in which to help others, please contact Judy Chapman 458-0584 or Helen Arnett 458-1274.

Our world has grown small - so small, that generosity towards a people far away has indeed become generosity towards ourselves and towards each other, for we have become neighbors.

The crisis of the Vietnamese refugees is our opportunity to express our care and compassion and generosity in a tangible and concrete way.

What meaning does the word CRISIS hold for you?

New chapter formed in Beta Sigma Phi

Nine members of Beta Sigma Phi, an international sorority, recently took the Exemplar ritual and formed a new chapter. Xi Alpha Gamma is the newest of the four chapters in St. Albert.

Taking the ritual, the third level or sorority, were Jan Aikens, Judi Andrews, Diane Hammond, Evelyn Komarnisky, Margaret Olson, Joanne Reinbold, Judy Samuel, Linda Sherwood and Alice Yeomans. Gail Barsness will take her ritual at a later date.

Xi Phi chapter of St. Albert was hostess at the ritual held in Bertha Kennedy School. Also participating were executive members of the sorority's Edmonton and area council including Millie Kossowan, president; Sheila McNear and Liz Van Der Zee, vice-presidents; Jennie Mischuk and Merle Kennedy, secretaries.

Executive members of Xi Alpha Gamma include Joanne Reinbold, president; Evelyn Komarnisky and Karol Heine, vice-presidents; Margaret Olson, recording secretary; Jan Aikens, corresponding secretary, and Linda Sherwood, treasurer.

Beta Sigma Phi, a cultural and service organization, has nearly 30 chapters in Edmonton and area including Xi Alpha Gamma, Xi Phi, Alpha Theta and Alpha Psi in St. Albert.

EXPRESS YOURSELF ... DECORATIONS DESIGN-ED BY YOU! ... Have you ever tried to design a decoration to apply to a coat or dress? Was it a frustrating experience? If so, help is on the way in the form of a one-day workshop "Basic Design Development," November 27, 9:30 - 3:30 p.m. in the Morinville M.D. Building. Anyone is welcome to register for this workshop by calling 939-4351 or 939-4317.

DESIGNS ... COLORS ... METHODS ... You will learn how to develop designs for use in clothing or in crafts; methods of applying a design; how to combine colors successfully; and practice a variety of methods to develop a design. If you sew your own clothes, like to quilt, do fabric printing or weaving, this workshop will enhance your present skills.

SAVORY SQUASH ... JUICY TOMATOES ... If you still have some zucchini squash in your home and would like to try some new recipes for this vegetable - from quickbreads to casseroles to pickles to marmalade to cookies, phone 939-4351 for your copy. Or if a lot of those green tomatoes are ripening too quickly for you to eat, then the "Garden Tomatoes" publication provides recipes for a delicious tomato sauce that freezes very well. Phone for your copy.

Living with Change

WARMING UP FOR WINTER ... Eight ladies, who have just completed sewing their own Eskimo Parks, will be looking forward to our cold winter weather.

Diane Knutson and Marlene Willis from St. Albert each chose a light blue duffel fabric for their parkas and applied a variety of attractive appliques to decorate the lower part of the coat. Agnes Haddock and Sandi Rudd also from St. Albert, used white duffel for their parkas. The three-day workshop instructed by Lolli Brenneis of Riviere Qui Barre, was held in the St. Albert United Church.

SEWING A WINTER COAT OR QUILTED VEST ... Would you be interested in taking a sewing course to increase your skills in working with heavy wool or quilted fabrics? Please call 939-4351 if you wish to take a course in winter coat construction or winter ski vests or jackets.

LET IT SNOW!

When buying toys motive is important

By Consumer & Corporate Affairs
Canadians spend $200,000,000 a year on toys, so it stands to reason that we should be concerned about how much we spend on toys, and whether we get the best buys in terms of quality, price and play value for the child.

There are a number of factors to consider when selecting toys - such as "the real reason we buy toys" and the level of our child's development.

Parents these days buy toys for many reasons. The most obvious, of course, is to provide children with a source of fun, and activity, or learning aid. However - other motivations may at times enter into these decisions - such as a feeling of guilt or perhaps a need to provide children with all the things we wanted, but couldn't have as a child. The latter is often seen among the grandparents of today, who were often unable to provide a lot of luxuries for their own children - but enjoy the opportunity they have now to "spoil" their grandchildren. This attitude is certainly nothing to be concerned about - as long as it's kept within reason.

Feelings of guilt are prevalent these days and are a result of the hectic lifestyle many of us have become accustomed to. Parents who feel they aren't spending enough time with their children, may unconsciously over compensate by lavishing a playroom full of toys or other material goods on their children. This type of behaviour doesn't make children feel any better - but certainly helps to alleviate feelings of guilt on the part of parents.

It has often been said that the quality of time spent with children is more important than quantity. Working

Moms, in particular, need to be reminded of this - especially at this time of the year when the pressures to buy for children is at its peak.

Children's toys should be selected and evaluated in terms of the play value to the child and added to that - the best value in terms of price.

Remembrance Day to be marked by St. Albert churches

It happens that Remembrance Day this year falls on a Sunday therefore most churches will be marking the occasion with appropriate references during their services of worship.

Readers of the Gazette who are too young to know what Remembrance Day is all about should have the following facts: At eleven o'clock in the morning of the eleventh day of the eleventh month of the year 1918 certain documents were signed in Europe to end what was called the "Great War". This is not to be confused with World War Two which Archie Bunker calls "The Big One".

For the past two weeks more and more people have been wearing the famous red poppy as a reminder of the Great War which came to an end after four years of continuous battle in which an estimated sixty thousand Canadian men and perhaps a few women lost their lives in famous places in France. Names like Somme, Paschendale, Ypres, Vimy Ridge come to mind. If you have ever visited that part of the world, you will be aware of the monuments that were erected to honor the "immortal dead" who paid the supreme sacrifice from 1914 to 1918.

This is ancient history to most of the population of Saint Albert, but the old Canadian Legion which then was called the British Empire Service League have never forgotten the memories of that horrible experience, in which their comrades died.

Thousands of Canadians were invalided home suffering from shell shock and other afflictions which left them something less than human. A lot of them spent the rest of their lives in veterans' hospitals across Canada, where some are still "alive" today. They are now somewhere between eighty and ninety years of age, and you will see some of them on National Television Sunday morning in Ottawa where the official ceremonies take place each year. Wreaths are placed at the cenotaph by the various governments and other military organizations to remind all of us that war is hell.

Following World War Two, the Canadian Legion maintained the tradition of marking November the eleventh as Remembrance Day, although that date has nothing to do with World War Two. It is important, for those who are patriotic citizens, to continue this tradition of celebrating Remembrance Day. In Eastern Canada it is business as usual when November the eleventh falls on a week day. Out here in the west it is marked as a holiday by some of the population.

The plastic poppies which we wear today are sold by various para military cadet organizations as well as the Canadian Legion, because of a poem that school children of years gone by would know by heart. It was written by a young Canadian officer by the name of Captain John McCrae who was killed in the year 1918 just before the Great War Ended. The words are as follows:

"In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row
That mark our place: and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are the Dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt Dawn, saw sunset glow
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe:

To you from failing hands we throw
The torch: be yours to hold it high

If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields."

The members of the Saint Albert Ministerial Association would like to remind you that our Lord told us to love our enemies. We should take the time this November the eleventh to think of the equal number of so-called "enemies" who also gave their lives in a war in which they were victims of diabolical circumstances. It was the plea of Pope Paul the Sixth before the United Nations in 1963, which was echoed recently by Pope John Paul II that there be "war no more - war never again".

We are all called to stop fighting and start loving one another. This begins right in our own homes, our schools and in our places of work, where there is a kind of war going on day by day between people who hate each other.

All you can do for Remembrance Day is to remember the prayer which Jesus taught us: forgive us our sins as we forgive those who sin against us. This is the prayer of faithful Christians of all ages and all places. If we can do this there will never be another war like the ones people remember from 1914 to 1918 and from 1939 to 1945.

MD requests lot count

Decision could lead to subdivision freeze in MD Sturgeon

By Carla Bit-Walmsley

The MD has decided to limit the amount of land allowable for subdivision in the Redwater-Coronado area until it receives a count on the number of lots presently available for development. If the number of lots presently undeveloped proves high, a general freeze on subdivisions across the municipality could be imposed.

The move follows a number of reclassification requests from low density agricultural to country residential, specifically in the Coronado area near Redwater where land is considered marginal for farming.

The most recent request from Bob Valleau, was tabled at council's October 25 meeting, pending the lot count. An earlier reclassification, sought by Henry Onushko, a farmer near Lost Point Lake, was refused. The decision followed a delayed Alberta Environment report which objected to any subdivision development adjacent to the Canada Packers Turkey Farm.

It was the third attempt by Mr. Onushko to have his land reclassified. A request submitted last October was also turned down. In the interim he was also refused by the Alberta Planning Appeal Board, and reapplied to the MD in April. It was refused by MD council a second time, despite an initial Alberta Environment report which had no objection to the subdivision development.

Mr. Onushko appealed and a second Environment report was requested. It failed to arrive by council's subdivision and development meeting on September 28 and the request was tabled until October 25.

AREA LANDOWNERS CHARGE DISCRIMINATION

Mr. Onushko's subdivision saga became a cause celebre and was further complicated by the MD's General Plan hearing, scheduled for August 30. Vocal opposition came from supporters of Mr. Onushko who claimed that a section in the plan, which would not allow any subdivision development within one mile of noxious industry or intensified agricultural endeavors, was discriminatory against landowners wishing to dispose of their land.

After listening to the opposition, council approved the plan with the contentious clause but allowed itself some discretionary powers to rule on individual subdivision requests.

Council only had until October 20 to rule on Mr. Onushko's application, and with their meeting scheduled for five days later Mr. Onushko decided to withdraw his application and appeal directly to the Alberta Planning Appeal Board for a second time.

On October 25 council read the second Environment report into the record. This time it expressed opposition to the development because of the proximity to the turkey farm, a position not taken in its first report. Based on the report council refused support for the reclassification, which caused councillor Walter Jerram, Mr. Onushko's sole supporter on council to charge that this was "obviously a put up job by Environment."

"The report is stronger this time, and they shouldn't even be commenting on the turkey farm, said Mr. Jerram. The subdivision is more than a half mile away but because the land butts up to the turkey farm, its not allowed. Maybe Canada Packers should buy up land, move its operation and subdivide."

Councillor Clayton Crozier pointed out that a Certificate of Compliance issued to the farm in 1976 protected the operation from encroachment by any subdivision, a claim disputed by Mr. Jerram.

"Mr. Crozier," said Mr. Jerram, "I would like to point out to you that the Certificate of Compliance has nothing to do with subdivisions. It is only for the cleanliness of the operation."

In dealing with the reclassification issue, council also noted that subdivisions appeared to conflict with the agricultural base of the district.

"We may be interfering with private industry, but we're supposed to be planning for the municipality as well," said Mr. Crozier.

"Other jurisdictions have put a freeze on these subdivisions," added councillor Walter Van de Walle, "and maybe we should do the same."

Council, said Mr. Jerram, appeared to just be looking for any excuse to refuse subdivisions in the area. "If it's not one thing it's another. All I know is that there had better not be any subdivisions coming in that are on good agricultural land."

Board announces logo contest

Students of the Sturgeon School Division: get your pens and pencils ready.

The Sturgeon School Board has agreed to sponsor a contest to design a logo for board vehicles, stationery and anywhere else they may want to put it.

No decision has been made yet on how much prize money will be awarded but the trustees agreed recently that only students and not parents and teachers will be eligible to win.

"This is something for the students to really get their teeth into," trustee Jim Ward said in voting for the contest. He noted that school pupils were involved in a logo contest last year for the MD of Sturgeon and they fared well.

Trustee Joyce Porsild disagreed with limiting the contest to students only, arguing that many children's efforts will include some help from their parents and teachers anyway. "I think it should be open to everyone, parents too," she said.

"But what you might do is scare everyone of your amateurs away," said Mr. Ward, if the board starts letting adults submit entries.

More details of the contest will be announced later, said assistant superintendent Walter Heppler, but plans call for it to take place by the end of December.

DINNER TIME

MD may oppose annexation

The MD has thrown a wrench into Bon Accord's plans to annex 300 acres of land east of the village. MD council recently voted to support the annexation, the first in the village's history, only if a one mile stretch of Lily Lake Road, is included as the east boundary road.

The village first presented its annexation request to the MD two weeks ago, but the road was not included as part of the submission. Council's subdivision and development committee recommended to council that the MD oppose the annexation, scheduled to come before the Local Authorities Board (LAB) in February, unless the first mile of the road leading north from Highway 28 was included.

The road has come into the limelight with the recent game farm relocation proposed by local ranchers Bill Cochrane and Walter Jeram. The provincial government told the two that it would not support a game farm unless the MD took some responsibility for reconstructing the eight miles leading to the site. Early last week the government decided to pay two-thirds of the projected $2 million but the MD has only committed itself to $500,000.

Caught in the middle is Bon Accord's annexation. Mayor Ken Fearnley said the town did not include the road in its submission because it could not afford to maintain it at this time. It would also be unfair, to the village, he added to have to maintain it, since much of the traffic generated on the road, does not come from Bon Accord.

While the MD did feel it could not support the annexation without inclusion of the road, council did compromise slightly by adding that the road would be maintained until the village could build up the land and eventually take it over. This arrangement, if it could be worked out, would be feasible said Mayor Fearnley, but it is unlikely the town would be using the road for up to 10 years.

It has taken since 1964 for the village to expand to its present boundaries and reach a population of 1,200. With council advocating a slow growth philosophy, allowing population to grow hand in hand with services available. A 50,000 sewage lagoon was completed last year and unlike the critical water shortages in Morinville and Legal, Bon Accord's well system, said Mayor Fearnley, provides enough good quality drinking water to meet the village's present population requirements. Construction on a new well is expected to begin shortly with a pumping capacity to supply future growth anticipated at 3,500 by the time subdivisions in the annexed area are developed.

Bon Accord refused to hook into Gibbons' system, which receives its water by pipeline from Edmonton, because costs, both initial capital and later to residents, would have been too high. "The cost of our water now is just a fraction of city water and it is good quality water," said Mayor Fearnley.

The village first presented its annexation request to the MD two weeks ago, but the road was not included as part of the submission. Council's subdivision and development committee recommended to council that the MD oppose the annexation, scheduled to come before the Local Authorities Board (LAB) in February, unless the first mile of the road leading north from Highway 28 was included.

MAYOR FEARNLEY

"They can't expect us to include it and maintain it now, we don't have the equipment nor could we justify it economically," he said. "Our submission has gone to the LAB without the inclusion of the road and it will be up to the Board to decide."

Much of Lily Lake Road was repaved this summer, but the one mile in question was not and will require major repair work, a job the village is financially unprepared to undertake. Mr. Fearnley estimates roughly, that it could cost approximately $60,000 and is basing his figure on the $15,000 paid to repave the quarter mile length of the village's main street this summer.

The MD had suggested the town might be able to take the road over in about three years and it would be maintained until then, but Mayor Fearnley feels that with the village's policy of controlled growth, it will take between five to 10 years for expansion to take in the full 300 acres.

Trustees refuse association bargaining

MORINVILLE -- Bigger isn't always better.

A cliché, maybe, but one that has led the Sturgeon School Board to decline an offer to join a bargaining association to deal with staff members' contracts.

"The gains of joining such an association are more than offset by what we could lose," said trustee Jim Ward. "You lose some of your autonomy when you join the bigger body."

That 'bigger body' may be a bargaining association made up of boards in Parkland, Sturgeon, Thibault, Sherwood Park, Fort Saskatchewan, Strathcona and Leduc. All have been invited by the Devon School District to a meeting to discuss formation of an association.

In a letter to the Sturgeon trustees, the Devon board's chairman, R. Wedin, said he was hopeful that "an association can be formed that incorporates similar social and economic ideas."

Devon is presently in the Elk Island bargaining association but Mr. Wedin noted that "there are few commonalities between us."

Mr. Ward suggested that Devon's plan is probably to form an association of boards that surround Edmonton. Out-going chairman Lois Hole asked whether such associations tend to produce more or less strikes among workers.

Actually, said Mr. Ward, less strikes usually result from the larger bargaining units because the costs in work stoppages are far higher.

The board's assistant superintendent, Walter Heppler, agreed but noted that, oddly enough, in the last two or three years it's the bargaining associations and not the independent boards that have had the most strikes.

In any case, Mr. Ward, a member of the board's teacher salary negotiations committee, said few problems have resulted recently in coming to agreement with the teachers and he saw no reason to join any associations.

The trustees agreed to notify Devon that they weren't interested in joining any proposed association "at this time."

Appeal Board says no to Mormon Church

The MD's Development Appeal Board has turned down a request by St. Albert's Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints to build a church on a five acre parcel in Manor Estates, northwest of St. Albert.

Development Officer, Greg Daruda had earlier turned down the development request on the grounds that he felt the church would be incompatible with land use in the area. MD council which sits as the appeal board, tended to agree, and told church representatives Brian Bennett and Chris Massey, that the land was zoned commercial and not institutional and could not be used as a church site.

Mr. Bennett argued that the church was in desperate need of room to expand. Land prices in St. Albert had forced his church to look elsewhere for a suitable size.

"Since organizing in St. Albert three years ago we have reached a congregation of 210 members," he said. "Growth is expected to continue, so it could easily be 400 in the next two years."

A new church would be extensively used by its members especially during the week, becoming a major social and cultural centre in addition to its Sunday worship service.

The only representation at the board came from Perter Prestie, secretary of the Viscount Estates Community League. Viscount Estates is located next to Manor Estates and Mr. Prestie claimed that residents of both subdivisions and those from lower Viscount were all against the proposed development.

A church, he felt, would add to traffic problems already becoming a problem in the subdivision.

"Roads are not the best and adding more people on it would make it into a freeway," said Mr. Prestie.

Of the 12 property owners adjacent to the site who were informed of the proposed church location, only one, however, sent in a submission against it.

The church has been looking for a suitable size land parcel since arriving in St. Albert but because no provision for church sites has been made, many congregations, in addition to the Latter Day Saints, have been going outside urban boundaries for cheaper land.

The Manor Estates location, they claimed was the best site they had found up to now. While it may be out of the way now, said Mr. Bennett, within two years the building would be in a strategic location.

While the Appeal Board was sympathetic, most councillors felt that road conditions and the commercial zoning made the location a poor choice for a church.

Board okays school zone signs

School zone signs -- an uncommon sight in most of the MD but one that'll soon look familiar following a recent decision by the Sturgeon School Board.

Prompted by a request for the signs at Sturgeon Heights

School the trustees agreed that there's a need for them at all schools in the division.

Board superintendent Frank Robinson said that "in time interests of safety," he'll be acting on the matter quickly.

Board to honour old time educators

Three Sturgeon School Board trustees have formed an organizational committee to begin planning a celebration during Alberta's 75th anniversary next year.

Lois Hole, Keith Everitt and Ruth Wall have volunteered for the job, which will largely involve putting together an evening of history in the division.

"I think it's time to honour the people who in the past have done so much for Sturgeon," Mr. Everitt said in volunteering his services. He added that the committee would be working to "plan a celebration without spending a lot of money."

Pictures of old schools on display and appearances from former teachers and administrators could be a major part of the evening, he said.

The celebration will come close to coinciding with this year's 40th anniversary of the division.

Distinctive domes and crosses identify St. John's Church

This gravestone reads, many a Ukrainian pioneer did toll from dawn to dusk to open up the new land. Faith was the only common denominator and until they could build their own houses of worship, services were often held in the largest private home among congregation members. The cemetery, located just behind St. John's church is the resting place for a few of these pioneers many of whom arrived as early as 1902 to forge a new life in a new land.

writers. Taras Schewchenko a dissident poet whose writings during his 47 year life turned him into a national hero still celebrated by Ukrainians everywhere and Ivan Franko a philosopher from whom the society takes its name.

Ivan Franko, Ukrainian philosopher. The society which runs the hall across from St. John's church takes his name and is known as the Ivan Franko Educational Society.

On stage sits a piece of scenery, by an unknown artist, depicting an idyllic Ukrainian village, prominent in which stands the three domed church. Probably the most unusual feature is the stage curtain, which when rolled down, shows Ivan Franko surrounded by squares of advertisements bought by businesses in the area during the 1930's. It was the only way, said Mrs. Kostiw, the congregation could pay for a curtain.

The congregation today is now older and dwindling and the church too has also suffered the ravages of vandals. Buckshot has peppered one of its domes and several of the precious stained glass windows have been broken.

Interest in the community hall has also decreased, making it more difficult to acquire cultural grants. In time, muse the Kostiw's, the entire congregation will disappear, but the church and others like it will, no doubt, continue to stand, symbols of the Ukrainian people who did toil the earth to build them.

By Carla Bit-Walmsley

St. John's Church sits on a lonely stretch of road. Pristine white, sometimes silver domes, rounded archways and unusually shaped crosses indicate to passersby that the building is a Ukrainian Greek Orthodox church.

Distinctive from Roman Catholic churches and also from those of the domed Greek and Catholic rite by crosses prominently displayed on the dome tops — two ornate horizontal bars, one smaller on top and a third, slanting downwards from left to right — the small country churches are built in the architectural style of the Eastern Roman Empire.

Thousands of Ukrainian settlers arrived in Alberta around 1902 in search of a new land and freedom from a barren existence left behind in the feudal Ukraine.

Central Alberta was a magnet for these early settlers and while many chose to stay in Edmonton, the fertile prairie soil lured others to travel along the Athabasca Landing Trail. They settled in, and established many communities in the eastern half of the MD of Sturgeon — Waugh, Fedorah, Opal and Egremont to name a few.

They toiled, as an inscription reads on one gravestone, "from dawn to dusk." Faith was a common denominator and until these settlers could build their own houses of worship, services were often held in the largest private home among congregation members.

LAND AT $10 A QUARTER

Peter Kostiw, a farmer near Bon Accord, recalls services in his father's home. Now president of the Ivan Franko Educational Society, he and his wife Kay are direct descendants of these early settlers, who paid $10 for 160 acres of land offered by the federal government in the early 1900's to open up the west. The west, was still considered a vast wasteland unattractive to established eastern Canadians. So the government had to depend on immigrants to open up prairie land and settle it.

The society's membership is today comprised of 20 odd members of St. John's Ukrainian Greek Orthodox Church, located seven miles north of Bon Accord on the Lily Lake Road. The congregation's community centre, built in 1935 across the road is still used as a meeting place for the society with dances held three or four times yearly.

The church, built in 1947 is still used for services, although today, because of the lack of a priest, services are only held about once each month. Like many Greek Orthodox churches in the area, it was built after the war.

The church and the hall are referred to as one. Services were once held in the original hall, built in 1928, but it burned down and was rebuilt in 1935.

The congregation soon outgrew the small family services, moving first to the Greek Catholic church, then to the hall and finally to its own permanent church. It was built in one summer, by the Kostiw's and those in the congregation who wanted to help, but was only finally carpeted last winter.

All Greek Orthodox churches, especially those in rural areas are built according to traditional Byzantine architecture. While to the outside eye, the church may appear similar to the Greek Catholic church, which sits unused barely a stone's throw away, certain features are peculiar only to churches of the Eastern European rite.

In the history of the Ukraine, where a family lived often determined their religion. All who emigrated, according to the Kostiw's, were of Greek Orthodox descent, though vestiges of the Romans, who brought the Catholic faith, (hence Greek Catholic) and the Russians who eliminated religion, are still present.

The Russian Orthodox church, though not as prolific is still found today. One is located in Redwater and is distinguished by a slanting cross moving downward from right to left. Mass is also said in Russian.

INTERIOR FOLLOWS ANCIENT TRADITION

The interior of St. John's is small, and less opulent than many, though icons are in prominent display in two corners before entering the front part of the church, known as the holy door. Stations of the cross, evident in Roman Catholic churches, would normally be displayed on a gilded partition behind which the priest would say mass. The tabernacle which holds holy chalices and the sacred wine is actually a miniature replica of a Greek Orthodox church and sits on an embroidered altar cloth. The interior dome above is white though in more affluent congregations richly painted murals are often displayed.

Though the church is not used that often, the community hall has become, over time, the focal point of the congregation and contains irreplaceable pieces of Ukrainian folklore.

WRITERS REMEMBERED

Prominently displayed as one walks into the hall are sketches of two of the Ukraine's most revered

Taras Schewchenko, dissident poet and the national hero to Ukrainians around the world.

Exterior view of St. John's Greek Orthodox Church. Located on Lily Lake Road, about seven miles north of Highway 28, the church's domes and unusually shaped cross figure prominently and are reminiscent of the architectural style of the Byzantine era and that of the Eastern Roman Empire. Built in 1947, the church became the first true home for Ukrainians in the area of Greek Orthodox faith.

Board plans multi-handicapped class

A class for dependent and multiply handicapped children is being set up in the Sturgeon School Division but no final decision has been made yet on where it will be.

At a recent board meeting, the Sturgeon School Board agreed to investigate setting up a class at the privately-owned Lamoureux Children's Home near Fort Saskatchewan.

The four children who would be in the special class already live at the home and the trustees agreed that there wasn't much use in moving them.

"I think it (the class) should be run in the home for a year until the program is in place," concluded board chairman Don Hood.

The 'program' would be a curriculum designed to suit the children's needs -- something that the provincial government hasn't provided though it has insisted that such children must get some kind of locally-run education.

The trustees were angry with Education Minister David King's recent insistence that local boards must set up programs for the multiply handicapped; not that they didn't wish to, just that they wanted to wait until some province-wide curriculum was developed.

"If they (the province) set out the program I'm quite prepared to put these kids in any school," said trustee Joyce Forsild, "but let's have a program."

"I think these kids have become political pawns," added trustee John McDonnell. The province and the school boards aren't sure of where their responsibilities lie and the children are in the middle.

In choosing to investigate the Lamoureux Children's Home the trustees acted against a staff recommendation to set up a classroom at Horse Hills School. A staff report noted that they had come to their recommendation after "due consideration" of advice from Alberta Education and Alberta Social Services.

A classroom within an existing school is still a possibility, depending on the trustees' opinions of the Lamoureux Home and the willingness of its director, Elizabeth Bryldt, to have a classroom in her residence facility.

Assistant superintendent Walter Hepler warned the trustees that there is a tendency to underestimate what these multi-handicapped children can do. "I think we can tend to exaggerate how bad the handicaps are," he said, thereby limiting the children's chances for growth.

Growth worries candidates for Morinville council

By Carla Bit-Walmsley
Holding the line on residential taxes, curbing growth to meet the financial capabilities of the town to provide services, and providing recreational facilities both now and in the future are the underlying concerns of the three candidates vying for the two vacancies on Morinville council.

At the close of nominations November 2, Richard Turcotte, Robert Anderson and Larry Fedechko had declared their interest in the by-election, set for November 21. While all three are concerned about growth and its effects on the town there is little agreement on how it should be controlled.

Mr. Fedechko, owner of Morinville Hardware does not like the term "control" and feels the town can still absorb additional residents. He thinks that hand in hand with residential growth should come commercial and light industrial growth, which would make the town more attractive for people to work in, rather than just to sleep in.

Mr. Anderson feels the town is now reaching a turning point in terms of expansion, but while he too, suggests growth should be limited, housing starts already committed should be completed. While council could hold back building permits, said Mr. Anderson, outside factors will eventually come into play.

"The market is going to be slowed, first by rising interest rates and secondly by rising gas prices, which will make commuting unattractive," he said.

It will ultimately have a positive effect on development of a viable business district in the town which, he feels needs to grow and be prosperous if it is to attract people to reside and work there.

Secondary industry and an expansion of commercial outlets would help to keep the residential mill rate down, added Mr. Anderson, while also providing local employment and improving what he called, the community feeling.

"We have a large percentage of commuters who still use this as a bedroom community," he said, "but we are still small enough to have a cohesive force within the town working for the town."

Another important, but not insurmountable issue, candidates are concerned with, is the town's immediate need for water. Related to this, feels Mr. Turcotte, is the servicing which becomes more complicated. The 200 housing starts projected for next year alone he feels, will be too much and will have a direct bearing on the quality and amount of facilities expected. Mr. Turcotte is also worried about the $4.2 million storm drainage system planned for the downtown core.

"I'm not sure that that degree of sophistication is needed right now," he said. "I don't really understand the technical aspects enough to comment on it further."

A final concern, still related to growth, is the provision of recreational and cultural facilities, particularly within the next five years. At issue is the Recreation Master Plan a blueprint for the development and construction of new facilities including a pool, rinks and tennis courts by 1984. Both Mr. Turcotte and Mr. Anderson would like to see present facilities like the arena and the historic and cultural centre upgraded and maintained before new facilities are built in the town.

Mr. Anderson sees problems with the Plan, and feels the town would be better off to improve existing facilities and pay them off "before going on to grand new ventures." "We have to take a serious look at our financial commitments and perhaps take on smaller projects at first," he said.

While a pool, for example, would be a welcomed asset, "and I would probably enjoy it too, I feel that the debt outlay on already constructed facilities must be paid off first, if the town is to hope to keep residential taxes at a reasonable mill rate."

CWL members review objectives

LEGAL: Members of Legal's Catholic Women's League met October 16 for their regular monthly meeting, and President Pat Montpetit reviewed the objectives of the League. Basically these are the unification of women for the furtherance of religious, cultural and intellectual interests, and the development of social action.

The executive meeting will be held at Lac La Biche October 27 and the "Day of Recollection" at Atmore November 16. Theme is "Mary is the life of a Catholic today." Please include these in your plans to attend them.

Jeannine Keane gave a summary on the life of Moses Coady, who taught the principals of co-operatives that by helping other people also help themselves. The Coady institute accepts students from 108 countries, and the league sponsors scholarships for these foreign students.

The members were pleased with the generous response to the appeal for the St. Vincent de Paul Society. Thanks was expressed also to Fr. Levasseur for the use of the choir loft for storage space, and to Mr. and Mrs. Gary Cromwell for the use of their home as a depot.

The district home economist will give a talk on "New Trends in Home Decorating" on November 20 and the CWL would like to have anyone interested attend, at the meeting room in the rectory at 8 o'clock. Next meeting will be on November 20 at 7:30 p.m.

Increase in use of Wakooma and Coulter recommended

WINNIPEG -- In a joint statement, the Canadian Wheat Board and Canadian Grain Commission have recommended that producers increase their use of newer Durum wheat varieties, particularly Wakooma and Coulter.

The recommendation is based on response from Canadian and overseas customers. Current marketing programs indicate that, while other Durum varieties have acceptable quality characteristics, Wakooma and Coulter are particularly preferred by Italian pasta manufacturers who mention improved gluten properties, colour and cooking quality.

The variety Hercules is still used to establish minimum standards for Canadian Durum wheat. However, it was noted that the newer varieties show significant improvement in colour and gluten strength over Hercules.

Last year the variety Wascana made up 38 per cent of Prairie Durum acreage. However, it does not have desirable gluten characteristics. Another variety, Macoun, is said to have good quality characteristics, but is not as suitable agronomically as other varieties.

The announcement is being made now to give farmers and the seed trade ample time to plan next spring's seeding program. The Wheat Board and Grain Commission said that increased use of Wakooma and Coulter varieties will help to improve Canada's position in the competitive international Durum wheat market.

NEWS FROM THE RENDEZ-VOUS CLUB

The Rendez-vous Club registered a success beyond expectations at their pot luck supper and social of Friday, October 26. Seventy-three loyal members enjoyed a sumptuous supper that is rarely offered by the most competent chefs of the trade. Once again the members in charge proved their savoir-faire.

Our clergy Mgr. Croteau and Rev. Simard also partook of the meal as they met and chatted with new and not so new acquaintances.

The evening was spent in dancing, singing in both French and English to the accompaniment of the Rev. at the piano and Hector Boissonnault on the violin. Most participated in a few card bingos, thus providing an opportunity to some members to win a little pin money.

It was an enjoyable outing and all are looking forward to the next time. Au plaisir de se rencontrer encore bientot.

Chickens to get squid

The squid, that denizen of Canadian coastal waters, may soon help broiler chicken operators in Atlantic Canada produce plumper birds in less time.

Researchers at Agriculture Canada's Kentville, N.S., Research Station have been testing squid meal as a potential source of protein for broiler chicken feed.

The scientists found that broilers with squid meal in their diets put on weight faster than those on a normal diet. The squid meal had no effect on the taste of the chicken meat.

Mrs. Watamaniuk corresponds regularly with a brother in Argentina and one in Poland. Another brother and her only sister are deceased.

She is still an active gardener but her plot will be a bit smaller next year she says. This Christmas she is sending some slippers she knit to her brother in Poland. She prefers to live in the country and her cozy home is bright with many varieties of house plants, many of which she enjoys giving to or starting for her friends. In late winter she starts her bedding plants indoors and gives away all she doesn't use herself.

When her friends arrived for her birthday they were greeted by the delicious odor of freshly baked bread so you see this is one lady who knows the value of remaining active.

The whole community wishes her a happy birthday and sincerely hopes she will stay among us for many years to come.

Morinville Library book review

Edmonton The Way It was: Produced by Fort Edmonton Historical Foundation, this beautiful book is one of our most recent additions. In time to celebrate Edmonton's birthday the book is full of interesting photographs which date from 1795 up until the present day.

Go Boy: Roger Caron. One of the better written exposes of the Canadian prison system, by a youth who was unable to accept normal life although he knew that as a criminal he was an all-time loser.

At One With the Sea: Naomi James. A relative novice at yacht sailing found that pluck plus lots of luck made her the first woman to sail around the world, west to east, and in a record time.

Sophia: A.E. Hotchner. The life story of the famous Film Star; pushed by a determined mother, she overcame illegitimacy, poverty, and lack of education to become a symbol of elegance as well as sex.

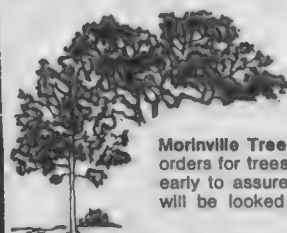

Edmonton Exhibition: The first 100 years. Tony Cashman. The development of the Exhibition, and Edmonton, 1879-1979. Interesting reading, more people than buildings, and excellent historic photographs.

Full Moon to France: Devereaux Rochester. Rich American girl caught up in France in 1940, became a Resistance worker, British agent, and saboteur. An unusual war story, simply told.

Mommie Dearest: Christina Crawford. The adopted daughter of the famous film star tells of bizarre happenings in her childhood when Joan became psychotic and a dipsomaniac.

Just a reminder our new Library Hours are: Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday 3-6 p.m., Tuesday 6-9 p.m., Saturday 10 a.m. - 1 p.m.

O'Rourkes celebrate diamond anniversary

WILLIAM & NELLIE O'ROURKE

William (Bill) and Nellie O'Rourke celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary on Sunday, October 14 at the home of their nephew, Denis O'Rourke, in Sherwood Park. The actual date of their anniversary is November 26 but the weather could be pretty cold by then. It was 45 degrees below zero the day they got married.

They lived in the Coronado-Gibbons area for many years. They have two sons Jock of Calgary and Michael of Red Deer. Jock made the presentation and a few anecdotes were told about their young days and their married life.

Their sister-in-law Agatha O'Rourke was there from Calgary, and Mrs.

O'Rourke's four sisters, Mrs. Clara Kluthe, Mrs. Kathryn Lema, Mrs. Phyllis Hinch and Mrs. Pat Krauskopf and one brother, Walter Goodman were also present, as well as some nieces and nephews. One brother Frank Goodman of Kelowna was unable to attend.

Sixty years later the young couple were still radiant like the day they were married.

They now reside in the Kiwanis Apartments in Edmonton.

Messages of congratulations were received from Prime Minister Joe Clark, Federal Sports Minister Steve Paproski, Premier Peter Lougheed and Lt. Gov. Steinhauer.

By Carmen Morin
Mr. and Mrs. Guy Cyr are pleased to announce the arrival of their son, Louis, on October 20, weighing 8 lbs. 15 ozs. Louis is a brother for Christine and Marc. The proud and happy grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Roger Cyr of Legal and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Leblanc of Campbellton, New Brunswick.

On October 24 approximately 50 friends and relatives gathered at the Curling Rink Lounge to honor Angie Auger at a miscellaneous bridal shower organized by her sisters Connie Auger and Dolores Brisson.

After an evening of games the future bride opened her gifts, and thanked everyone for coming and for the lovely and useful gifts.

Angie will become the bride of Maurice Mercier of St. Albert, on Saturday, November 10, 1979. She was also honored at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Francis Beaudoin, an aunt of the future groom, on October 13.

Legal TOPS Club is sponsoring a garage sale on Saturday, November 10 starting at 9 a.m. in the building across from Legal Motors. Everything from soup to nuts. Surprise barrel draw. Free coffee. Come one, come all.

Ladies Afternoon Curling. We haven't had much response to afternoon curling. If you are interested, please phone Kathy Durstling at 961-2469. A babysitter will be available at 50¢ per child. This will be perfect for new curlers or those who wish to get back into curling. According to your preference it will be decided whether we will have league games or prizes given and also the day and time.

Lioness brunch and bazaar, Sunday, November 18, at the Community Hall. Breakfast will be served from 9:30 to 12:30 and the bazaar will run from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. There will be adult and children's plates, as well as a door prize at the breakfast. The bazaar will consist of a bake table, odds and ends table, Christmas items and handicraft articles. Proceeds will go towards their Foster Child. Everyone welcome.

Sturgeon Regional Recreation is sponsoring its third annual handicraft fair on Saturday, December 1 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the Morinville Centre. Anyone is invited to show or sell home crafted or baked items. For details phone 939-4317.

On October 27, the Lioness Club held their second annual masquerade dance at the Community Hall. Ghosts, goblins, witches and the like enjoyed the evening dancing to the music of "Country Wing."

The best dressed couple were Reg and Terry Oligny, and Maurice St. Jean was the best dressed man.

The hallowe'en committee for the children's annual hallowe'en party appreciated all the help they had and donations from the businesses and to the public who were so generous. Special thanks to the students for helping with the decorations and for the spook room stories.

A very special thanks to the people on the hallowe'en committee for all their time and effort put into organizing the party for our children. It was very much appreciated by many thankful parents.

Funeral of 50 years ago brings about reunion

By Florence Vranas
Carrie Rockwell was mystified recently when her neighbor Dorothy Grant showed her an ad that appeared in the personal section of the Edmonton Journal on October 1st. It requested a Zuink and Caroline Zwarich to contact the Journal but left no name.

Carrie and her brother Isadore (Zuink) Zwarich notified the Journal and in due time a Joe Zeleny of Calgary contacted them. He had been a resident of Cardiff, some 50 years ago and the three enjoyed a wonderful visit when they finally met again in his home.

Mr. Zeleny who never married is now 86 years old and lives alone in his home. He wanted to personally present the two with a gift of appreciation for kindnesses shown him at the time of his mother's death in 1929. Nick and Mary Zwarich, parents of Carrie and Isadore, helped the young man by making the coffin and preparing the body for burial.

Although it was wintertime with a temperature of minus 30°F Mr. Zeleny, out of respect for his mother, walked the entire four miles to Morinville behind the horse-drawn hearse, while Bill

Rockwell and Edwin Bailly drove two sleigh loads of mourners. After the funeral mass in the Roman Catholic Church Mrs. Zeleny was laid to rest in the church cemetery where Joe has made arrangements to be buried as well. The hearse was owned by Telephone Meunier and driven by Eddie Lefebvre, both of Morinville.

Legal students adopt child

This year, because it is the International Year of the Child, the junior and senior students union are raising money to adopt a needy child. If possible we want to adopt a boy from the Philippines. We will be giving him $20 a month to buy food, clothing and to go to school. We hope that he will have a happy and wealthy life.

YEARBOOK 79/80

This year's yearbook is bigger and better than ever before. Do you know approximately how much the yearbook actually costs? Well, it costs 16 dollars. But they give it to us for eight dollars, that's a steal!

There have been around 40 yearbooks sold for this year. The photographers for this year are, Robert Royan for the senior high and Cathy Derrien for the junior high, so more pictures will be taken. If you want your Friesen Yearbook contact Rachel Prefontaine or Lori Coones. You'd better order fast because this is a once in a lifetime chance. The deadline for this year's yearbook ends next week. So hurry!

Volleyball off to good start in Legal

The junior high boys volleyball season got underway in Legal at the beginning of this month with a total of 17 players trying out for the A and B teams.

This year's A team consists of Captain Robert Cyr, Assistant-Captain Dennis Derrien, Robert Proulx, Norm Taylor, Marc Durocher, Carl Medcke, Wes Michalycia, James Stephenson, and Stephane Boucher.

The B team consists of Captain Albert St. Jean, Assistant Captain Dennis Rivard, Ron Parent, Joe Lewis, Laurance Leguir, Lance Stephenson, Jim Sawatsky and Andre Maurier.

On October 12 the two teams travelled to Morinville for their first games. The B team completely dominated the games against Morinville's grade 7 and 8 teams and won five out of six. The A team had a hard time against their grade A team and lost two games out of three.

On October 19 the teams were again on the road and this time they were in Namao. The B team fared well and won both of their games. The A team again had trouble and lost two out of three.

Last night the A team went to Westlock but scores were not available. Tonight both teams will be playing at Sturgeon Heights.

JR. HIGH GIRLS

The junior high girls A volleyball team played three games in Morinville and won two of them. They also played three games in Namao and won two. There are nine players on this team - Marie Letourneau, Judi Krauskopf, Suzie de Champlain, Cathy Derrien, Lori Taylor, Lisa Johnson, Gwen Fredsberg, Wendy Cornellis and Lisa Powder. Also trying out for the A team is Jackie Durocher.

The junior high girls B volleyball team played six games in Morinville and won three, tied one and lost two. In Namao they played two games and lost one and happily won the other. There are 10 players in this team - Gisele Chamberland, Terry de Champlain, Barbara Shank, Denis Dube, Cindy Rivet, Jackie Durocher, Kathy Linkert, Melanie Abbott, Lauraine Cyre and Connie L'Hereux.

The girls on the junior high volleyball teams will be receiving new uniforms at the end of the month. There will be a volleyball game in Legal hopefully on November 3. Come one, come all and support your school.

There goes the block!

Two Namao junior high students go up for a block of an impending spike from this Sturgeon player in a recent volleyball game.

Legal Knights install officers

On Saturday, October 20 the Legal Knights of Columbus held their annual installation of officers. The ceremony was held at St. Emile Catholic Church at 7:30 p.m. Officiating the ceremony was the Worthy District Deputy Felix Stradeski, and the District Warden Archille Hebert. The newly elected officers for the coming term were: New Grand Knight: Robert Pelletier; Deputy Grand Knight: Raymond Ouellette; Financial Secretary: Denis Limoges; Chancellor: Michel Nault; Recorder: Ray Tremblay; Treasurer: Richard Montpetit; Advocate: Norman Letourneau; Warden: Roger Gagne;

Trustee: Robert Regimbald; Trustee: Pete Montpetit; Interior Guard: Roland Lantot; Exterior Guard: Raymond Rivard; Lecturer: Denis Pelletier; Membership Director: Mike Gagne; Chaplain: Father Lavasseur.

Upon completion of the ceremony, all brother knights, their escorts and honorary guests gathered at the recreation centre for a social evening.

As the new Grand Knight, I would personally like to thank all my fellow brother knights for their participation in the ceremony and also to all those who did a terrific job organizing the social evening.

Churches need good used clothing

By Norma Crozier
 Namao Catholic Women's League are collecting good used winter clothing for Vietnamese refugees. Donations may be left in the trailer at the Namao United Church. Namao United Church Women are holding their annual drive for Bissell Centre in Edmonton. There is a desperate need for good used clothing and household articles. These may be left in the trailer at the church until November 9, when they will be picked up for Bissell. As these collections are being made at the same time, would you please mark your boxes.

UCW MEETING
 Namao UCW will hold their final meeting of 1979 at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Stanton in St. Albert, on November 14 at 1:30 p.m. All interested ladies are invited to attend.

HARD TIMES DANCE
 Remember the Community League "Hard Times Dance" on Saturday, November 10. Tickets still available.

BABY CONGRATULATIONS
 Congratulations to Mrs. Molly McDonnell on a new grandson, born to Gordon and Daun McDonnell of North Vancouver, B.C. Mark Alexander arrived on October 22, 1979 weighing 7 lbs. 3 ozs.

MRS. HELEN BAILEY PASSES
 On November 1, 1979, Mrs. Helen Bailey of Edmonton, formerly of Namao, Alberta passed away at the age of 67 years. She is survived by one son Wes, of St. Albert, one daughter, Sheila Wright of Edmonton and nine grandchildren. She was predeceased by her daughter Lorraine in 1976 and her husband, Robert in 1956.

Funeral services were held on November 5 from Howard and McBride's Chapel with Reverend Leonard Musto officiating and interment in the Namao Cemetery. Sympathy from the Namao district goes out to her family.

CORRECTION - In last week's news column, new baby congratulations were to DOUG AND DEBBY CROZIER.

EDITOR'S NOTE:
 For nearly nine years Norma has gathered up, and written up news of the Namao community for the Gazette. Never was there any chance that grammar, spelling or English language usage would need change or correction. We're not sure where Norma took her schooling, but we do know she has a better grounding in English than the majority of young people graduating today. She has also sympathy and understanding for Namao families in times of joy or sorrow, and we were sorry to learn she was giving up the column.

We wish Norma good luck and a little more free time in future, and would also like to publicly thank her for an association with the paper that we have valued and appreciated.

Namao seniors press for hall repairs

By Hazel Martin
 NAMAO -- A regular meeting of the Namao 60 Plus Club was held in the Namao Community Hall on November 1st with 26 members present. After an exercise period, led by Mrs. Alice Kreller, games and cards were enjoyed. Mrs. Gladys McLay and Mrs. Viola Samis served a delicious lunch of baking powder biscuits with jelly and cheese.

A discussion on plans for renovating the hall took place. We are most concerned that no further delay be entailed as so many people use the hall, and the present kitchen is too small. The secretary was requested to write to the president of the Namao School and Community League suggesting that it might be better to hire a contractor to complete early repairs.

It was decided to table the kindergarten situation until after our Christmas meeting. Our price for lunch is to be raised from 50¢ per person to 75¢ to cover the added costs.

A suggestion that we have a sing-song to open the meeting instead of exercises every second meeting will be tried.

Miss Berman had called our president, Mr. Harold Clapp, to request transportation for a mother and child to the Mental Health Clinic. Mr. Clapp had volunteered his services for the trip.

Our next meeting is Nov. 15 at 1:30 p.m. in the Namao Hall, and all seniors are cordially invited to be with us.

Recreation Council news

Submitted by the Department

A four week program for ages 6 to 12 will be held in Calahoo at the Gazebo on Wednesdays, November 21 to December 12 from 6 to 8 p.m. The emphasis will be on creating small gift items. The deadline for registration is November 16 and pre-registration is required.

The deadline for registrations in competitive gym is November 13, 1979. The program will operate out of Sturgeon Composite High School on Tuesdays and Thursdays and is designed to prepare participants for future competition. The program is open to children between the ages of 8 and 18.

PLAY ON DELINQUENCY DRAWS CROWD
 One hundred and fifty people turned out to view "On and Off the Street," a theatrical presentation by the Catalyst Theatre. Most people considered that the production was effective in exploring the causes and effects of juvenile delinquency. The program also allowed the audience to 'talk back' to the characters and confront them with some of the issues raised by the play. Sturgeon Regional Recreation welcomes the opinions and feelings of those who saw the show, so that they may consider these with reference to future performing arts endeavors.

Namao Reporter Needed

The Gazette is looking for someone interested in the community events and the people of Namao district to write a weekly report, since Norma Crozier is giving up the Namao news column. The task involves time on the telephone and keeping track of district happenings, and writing them up. It can be interesting work and there is a small payment and expense fee.

Please call the Gazette at 458-2241 if interested and ask for Shirley or Duff Jamieson.

Sportswriter will speak to Fish & Game group

The Fish and Game Association will meet at the school on Tuesday, November 20 at 7:30 p.m. Guest speaker will be Mr. John Dodd, a sport writer with the Edmonton Journal. A fly-tying kit is the prize for the November Snow Ball draw -- but you have to be there to win the kit. Winner of the October draw was Dave Broda who took home a G96 Folding Belt Knife. Thanks are extended to Rick Hilborn and Ken Moffat from the Fishing Hole who showed a film on fly-tying at the October meeting. Plans are underway for a Junior Rifle Course for the new year. Keep this in mind if your boy or girl has a 22 or maybe a Christmas gift coming. Donations of wild game are needed to guarantee another successful supper in conjunction with the Trophy Ball slated for February. Please contact Ken, 921-3762, Jean, 921-2431, Erhart, 921-3567 or Brian, 921-3887 if you wish to supply any meat for this event. Be sure to mark clearly the type of meat. Hunting and fishing license numbers are also needed.

The senior hockey season gets underway this Friday, November 9 when the Bon Accord Wildcats will be meeting Redwater at Redwater at 8:00 p.m. On Sunday, November 11, the Wildcats will host Legal, game time 2:30 p.m. Come out and support the home town team!

joyable Hallowe'en Party on October 29 with all the girls decked out in a "hard to judge" assortment of costumes. Luckily for the judges, there were prizes for all.

The turnout for Family Public Skating held for the first time this season last Saturday evening from 6:45 - 8:30 p.m. was most gratifying. Public skating to music is scheduled for every Saturday evening. Make this your outing with all the family.

The Bon Accord Ag. Society will be sponsoring a Hard Time Dance in the Bon Accord Community Hall on Saturday, November 24. Tickets are $12.00 per couple with a limit of 80 couples and are available from Ag. Society members and the Village Office. Music is by Majestic Sound.

HELP!!! is desperately needed to man the volunteer ambulance emergency service. If you are qualified and are willing to give a few hours of your time to this vital service any time during the day or night, please contact Lynda Bland, 921-2374.

As far as the young fry were concerned, Hallowe'en passed uneventfully with treats handed out by village residents but no serious signs of tricks, aside from a few misplaced eggs and soaped windows. Congratulations, kids!

$170.00 in 55 numbers. The Bonanza was won by Betty West. Free admissions to next Sunday's bingo went to Jean Briggs, Henry Boisvert and Lizzie Sprague. Play bingo Sundays at 7:30 p.m. in the Bon Accord Community Centre. All help is volunteer and all profits go towards community recreation. If you'd like to lend a hand, please contact Glenda Bobbie, 921-3574 or Betty West, 921-3638.

A Creative Design Development Course will be held in the Sturgeon Municipal Office building on Tuesday, November 27 from 9:30 a.m. - 3:30 p.m. This course is suitable for sewers or craft makers who wish to know more about designing their own work. The registration fee is $6.00. The deadline for registration is November 20. For information and registration, please call Lynda Bland, 921-2374.

You are reminded that the Sturgeon Handicraft Fair is slated for December 1 in the Morinville Recreation Centre. For information or table reservation, please call Lynda Bland, 921-2374.

Bon Accord Beef Club organizes

By Greg Uchacz
BON ACCORD - The Bon Accord Beef Club held its reorganizational meeting on October 10. Members agreed that the animal weigh-in will be held on November 14 (next Wednesday) at 6 p.m. New Bon Accord Beef Club officers for the 1979-80 year are as follows: Presi-

at 9:00 p.m. at the school is mixed volleyball night. Lots of room for newcomers so make an effort to join us!

As usual, it is the adults who can't stay out of mischief and Hallowe'en was no exception. We experienced our share of nasty, frightening witches and no-so-nasty-frightening (but certainly lecherous) priests terrorizing, harrassing, browbeating and embarrassing some of our quieter, law-abiding citizens.

If these "creatures" continue to collect private portions off residents as well as at Ducky's, no doubt the flight home on a broom won't seem at all difficult!

Still, it's nice to see that since Bon Accord will be foregoing its annual Fashion Show this year, some of our former models still look their best in black!!

The Bon Accord Village Office will be closed on Monday, November 12 in lieu of the Remembrance Day holiday, November 11, which falls on Sunday this year.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

The Council of Town of Gibbons having been given authority under The Planning Act, R.S.A. 1970, as amended, to control development within the boundaries of the Town of Gibbons by zoning, will hold a public hearing. The purpose of this bylaw is as follows:

That the Zoning Map attached to and forming part of the Zoning bylaw of the Town of Gibbons be amended by zoning:

Rezoning Part of the SE 10-58-23-W4th from RR (residential reserve) to R-1 (residential single family), RR (residential reserve) to R-2 (residential two family), RR (residential reserve) to P (park).

The proposed bylaw may be examined between the hours of 9:00 A.M. and 5:30 P.M. in the office of the Municipal Secretary of the TOWN OF GIBBONS. The Public hearing will be held in the Town Office on the 20th day of November at 7:00 P.M. Written objections to the proposed bylaw will be received by the Municipal Secretary at Town of Gibbons office until 5:30 P.M. on the 20th day of November, 1979.

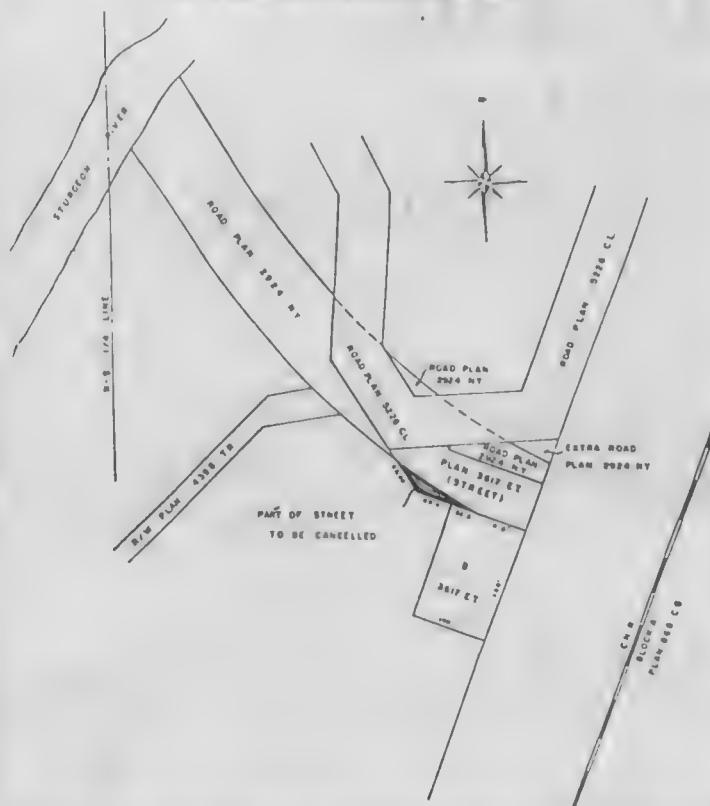

Objections shall be submitted in writing prior to the meeting. Those written objections which have been received before the designated time will be discussed at the meeting before further presentations will be recognized.

A.R. McLean
Acting Mun. Administrator

TOWN OF GIBBONS NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Pursuant to Sections 175 and 177 of The Municipal Government Act, the Town of Gibbons intends to pass a Bylaw closing and selling the following described portion of road for the purpose of disposing the land to the adjacent property owners:

Part of Street within Subdivision Plan, 3817 E.T.

Any person objecting or prejudicially affected by the proposed Bylaw may make application to the Municipal Administrator to be heard by Council at a public meeting to be held on November 20, 1979 at 8:00 P.M. in the Town Office.

Last Round-up enjoys grocery whist

GIBBONS - A regular meeting of Gibbons Senior Citizens was held in the Dew Drop Inn October 25.

Thirty members answered roll call and there was one visitor, Bea Simmons from Spruce View Manor.

For the afternoons entertainment, whist was played for grocery prizes with the following winners. Ladies High Katie Morin, Ladies Low Jeanette Petherbridge, Men's High Lillian Todd, Men's Low Jim Shaw.

The lunch consisted of buttered fruit bread and pie, coffee and tea.

An unintentional omission was made last week in regards to who helped supply the lunch. Myrtle McCrimmon and Katie Petherbridge should have been included, my apologies for this error.

The "birthday cake" was donated by Eleanor Drinkill (Sunday School Circle).

Those celebrating birthdays in October are Reg Austin, Katie Brandle, Alex Cunningham, Jean Fowler, Jane Hood and Jeanette Petherbridge. We all sang "Happy Birthday."

On Tuesday, October 16, 28 members were able to accept an invitation from the St. Albert senior citizens to join them in an afternoon of fun.

Many thanks to the volunteer drivers who made this pleasant afternoon possible.

Exercises are held in the Dew Drop Inn every Wednesday 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. for any senior citizens who wish to attend.

The next regular meeting will be held November 8th.

Air Cadets on Parade

Sturgeon Air Cadets tough it out at bush camp

By Julie Saunders

On October 26 weekend, cadets of No. 524 Squadron travelled to Camp Wright near Athabasca to put into practice the bush training already learned during summer camps and in classes.

Senior cadets under the direction of Lt. E. Mortimer, Dan Krystia and WO1 T. McHardy spent Saturday in the bush. A number of cadets were assessed on leadership abilities in situations involving the stopping of a vehicle.

Senior cadets under the direction of Lt. E. Mortimer, Dan Krystia and WO1 T. McHardy spent Saturday in the bush. A number of cadets were assessed on leadership abilities in situations involving the stopping of a vehicle, and searching for a lost person.

Meanwhile, the "herbies" or new recruits were learning basic bushcraft under the direction of Cpl. A. Saunders. This included the use and care of axes, knives, and saws, snares, shelters and firemaking.

In the afternoon, the senior cadets built their shelters and arranged their outdoor camp. Joined later by the junior cadets, war games began and continued until suppertime. Those cadets who chose to sleep out awoke next morning to discover they had an extra covering - of frost!

Lt. Mortimer complimented cadets on the quick clean-up of camp. The cabins were cleaned, belongings packed up and wood replenished, all before noon, for the first time!

Our thanks to the officers who participated and to the cooks, Mrs. M. Madsen, Mrs. P. Huget and Mr. and Mrs. R. Lesage for providing good meals for always - hungry cadets. Bob Lesage's homemade soup was a great hit!

Tired cadets pronounced it a great weekend, in spite of several minor mishaps, and that was agreed to by Lt. Mortimer and Capt. Fletcher. Thanks to everyone who made it a success.

UPCOMING EVENTS: November 11th - Remembrance Day.

Gibbons 4-Hers to sell candy

By Susan Minchau

Each year the Gibbons 4H Sew and Sews decide on a money raising project, and much of this money goes to the new Battle Lake 4H Camp facility. This year we have decided to sell candy, in plenty of time for Christmas. So watch out for eager little Sew and Sews, with their delicious peanut brittle and party mints!

The Gibbons 4H Sew and Sews held their last meeting at Minchau's house. Project books for all units were handed out, and the first year members decided to make tote-bags for their projects. Work meetings for Units 1 and 11 will be held every third Monday of the month at the Gibbons Hall. Mrs. Leona Petherbridge, club leader, will be assisting Unit 1, and Mrs. Nellie Readner will be helping Unit 11. Units 111, 1V and V may go to Doreen Lamoureux or Doreen Min-chau for assistance.

A suggestion of having a hallowe'en party for the next business meeting on November 5, was made. The girls decided that this was a good idea and that costumes were a must. The meeting was held at Joanne Lamoureux's home.

After the meeting was adjourned, the club initiated the new members. They were all very good sports, and now they are full-fledged 4Her's.

A non-essential step

Redwater council crops committee of the whole

Redwater council has eliminated committee of the whole meetings in favor of a more structured committee system. While councillors have always had, and will continue to have, specific responsibilities on council, all recommendations in past came to council via the committee of the whole.

With two additional councillors since the by-election held August 28, councillors felt they would be more effective handling items in committee first, with recommendations directly to council. Committee of the whole has no power to approve recommendations and council felt it would eliminate a non-essential step.

The move came about as a result of council's organizational meeting held October 30. Several councillors retained committees from the previous year while the two new councillors, Margaret Lorraine Jegard and Jack Dennett were added to already existing committees.

Anthony Flierl. Mrs. Jegard and Mr. Dennett will share duties with Brian Davies on Utilities and will split the workload on Planning with deputy mayor Peter Hrynchuk.

Mrs. Jegard, Mr. Davies and Hugh MacKenzie will work together on the Finance committee, preparing the budget and handling major expenses while Mr. Flierl, Mr. MacKenzie and Mr. Hrynchuk will continue to tackle Public Works.

Mayor Alex Konasewich, while not holding any specific portfolio, will retain an ex-officio status on all committees.

Redwater News

Don't forget the local blood donor clinic on Thursday, November 8, between 6-8 p.m. at the Deric Hall in Redwater, sponsored by the Kinsmen.

There will be an annual meeting of the Redwater Agricultural Society at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, November 14 in the Multiplex.

Two farmer's markets are coming up - one on November 24th and the Christmas market on December 8. For details call Anne Evasiw at 735-3582.

Postal service for the November holiday will be as follows: Closed Monday, November 12th for wicket services. Box service open as usual.

Children's shows at the Legion Hall in Redwater are "Puff 'n Stuff" with Jacke Wild on November 10 at 10:00 a.m. and on November 17, "Adventures of Simbad" which is animated, will be shown.

Apologies to the children who expected "Gentle Giant" at the Legion Hall last Saturday and instead saw "Hook, Line and Sinker" with Jerry Lewis. The company had sent the wrong film.

When the questionnaire went around last fall regarding children's Saturday movies there was good response for them. However, the more recent movies, specifically the last two, have had poor attendance, and as a result the cost of the film is not even covered. If the movies are to be continued, more response will have to be shown.

Learn to curl at the Multiplex on Nov. 9 (night) and Nov. 10 (day). The fee for adults is $7.00 and students $5.00. Contact Bryon Gray if interested.

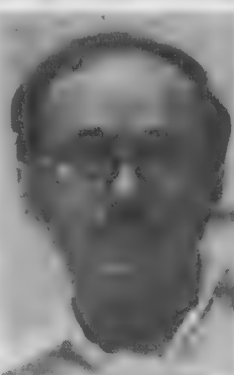

Phone 735-4435 for advance orders of light and dark homemade Christmas cake featured by the St. Clare's ladies group in Redwater. Their annual bake sale and tea will be held at St. Clare's Church Hall on November 16 from 1:30 - 4:30 p.m.

There will be a Remembrance Day Parade starting at 10:00 a.m. on Sunday the 11th, comprised of Beavers, Cubs, Scouts, Brownies, Guides, Cadets, RCMP and Legion members. The service and laying of the wreaths will be at 11 a.m. at the Legion Hall. For more information call Gerry Riley at 735-4375.

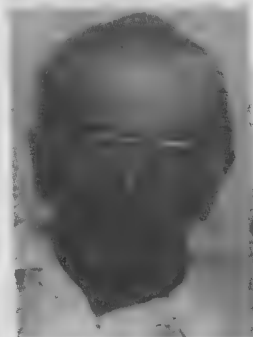

Phone your news to 735-4432 on or before Mondays.

On November 23rd and 24th, there will be a Curling Funspiel for curling club members and their families only, at the Multiplex at Redwater. There is a Grey Cup Dance on Saturday night. Phone Don Clark at 735-4383 or Joanne Walker at 735-3699 for more information.

Recycle toys at Redwater sale

Attention parents and grandparents! Looking for Christmas bargains? Plan to attend a Used Toy Sale. The Ladies of St. Clare's Parish in Redwater believe that many people cannot afford brand new toys for their children and suggest, "Why not recycle toys?"

Recycling has become acceptable and even fashionable in the past few years. Governments are studying the feasibility of recycling sewage and private enterprise is already making money by recycling used pop tins, bottles and newspaper.

What good is a toy to a child who has outgrown it? Sometimes in the case of well-made toys, the child outgrows the toy before the toy itself has worn out. And yet, with the appalling cost of toys these days, parents are reluctant to discard these toys, especially if they are still in good condition.

To help relieve this situation, the St. Clare's Ladies will hold a Used Toy Sale on November 16th, from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. in St. Clare's Church Hall, Redwater. It is being held in conjunction with the Ladies' annual Christmas Bake Sale.

Persons wishing to sell good used toys, may bring them to the church hall on the day of the sale. One of the ladies will tag and record the articles. The price will be set by the seller and if sold the Ladies' Group will retain 10%. All unsold toys will be returned. With the exception of skates, all types of children's toys will be acceptable.

Colts fumble away title

The Standard General Colts could have been the champions of the Edmonton and District Bantam Football League, but some costly fumbles prevented that from happening.

The Colts bowed to the Sherwood Park Rams 20-7 Sunday afternoon at Kinsmen Park in Edmonton, giving up two interceptions and five fumbles.

The Colts looked good on their opening series after taking a punt from the Rams. A 10-play, 53 yard march was capped by a one yard plunge by running back Dave Rogers. Quarterback and place kicker Mike Tessier lofted the convert through the uprights for an early 7-0 lead.

Shortly after, the Rams scored a touchdown on a long pass and run play, only to have it called back for a holding infraction.

The Colts controlled play till midway in the second quarter, when key errors gave the Rams chances to score. And they did.

The first Ram major came following a facemasking call against the Colts. The Sherwood Park team took a first down at the Colt 27, and ran a perfectly executed "end-around." The convert was good, and the ball game was tied at 7-7.

Following the kickoff, Tessier threw on first down, but was intercepted for a 29 yard touchdown, and the Colts were behind 13-7 after the Rams convert attempt sailed wide.

In the third quarter, the Colt defense came up big, limiting the Ram offence to small ground gains; but the Ram defence played just as well, and stopped St. Albert on critical plays.

Early in the fourth, the Rams collected a pair of good punts, the last one yielding a fumble that was recovered on the Colt two yard line.

Rams, despite a very strong Colt goal-line stand, finally put the ball over on third down. The convert was good for a 20-7 margin.

With a minute remaining, the Colts last ditch effort for a TD was snuffed by a second Ram interception.

Coach Roger Graff, a little disappointed in the outcome, felt the team displayed good all-round effort, especially from the defence. The fumbles, though, is what cost them the game, along with two blocked punts.

COLTS CLIPBOARD:

The Rams had a decent day on the ground, running 33 times for 102 yards, but stats show they were 0 for 3 in the passing department. On the other hand, the Colts amassed 173 yards on the ground. Kelly Murray was the leading rusher, running 13 times for 57 units. Dave Rogers also had a good game, going 51 yards on seven carries. Regan Owen, running seven times, collected 35 yards. Tessier threw eight passes, completing four of them, but gave up two interceptions. His passing yardage added up to 51 yards ... Doug Eglinsky was given the nod as "head coach" in Graff's rotating coaching system ... Craig Lukaniuk and Roy Riege were singled out by Graff as the top defensive players in the game, while Rogers and Murray performed well on the offence ... This was the third year in a row the Colts lost in the final, as they bowed to Union Tractor last year. The year before, the Rams outpointed the Colts for the title, while three years ago the Colts did, in fact, win the big trophy by beating Union Tractor ... Graff said at the beginning of the year, the coaching staff didn't think the Colts would make it to the final. In that respect, the Colts going undefeated till the final is amazing, and as Graff admitted, "It's a real tribute to the boys who played together as a unit" ... The season ends Friday for the Colts, as they'll get together for a wind-up banquet at the Club Mocombo ... The final will be shown tonight at 6 p.m. on Capital Cable 5.

Marty O'Kell

In the July 5 edition of the Gazette, I did a column on the Canadian Football League and where the nine teams would finish. I also promised to pull it out at the end of the season and see if I was "psychic."

Well ... It appears that I do have some psychic intelligence (some people may question the fact that I have any intelligence at all) as the results of regular season play came out almost identical to what I predicted. (There I go again, blowing my own horn).

What I picked was ... Edmonton in first, followed by Calgary, B.C., Winnipeg and Saskatchewan in the west. Down east, I called for Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto and Hamilton. Here is the only difference, as Hamilton "squeaked" by Toronto for that last playoff spot.

Going over my comments on the respective teams, it looks like I had the right idea.

With a couple of exceptions.

One was Winnipeg would give B.C. a run for the money. Here I was wrong. Winnipeg didn't give B.C. any kind of a run. The only "run," as far as I could see, was the Bomber fans running back to the ticket office asking for a refund. This paragraph is running too long.

Another exception was my comment that the laughing in Toronto at the Argos would be somewhat quieter this season, what with the acquisition of Forest Gregg as head coach. Well, there wasn't much laughing during the Argos first few games, but there was some during the remainder of the season. Let's face it ... Toronto will NEVER reach the playoffs. It's beginning to look like a fact of life.

And who would have thought Tom Clements would have been traded from Saskatchewan to Hamilton, with the move giving the Cats a breath of life? Not I.

I honestly believed Clements would have played this year with the Roughies from Cereal Flats, then try his luck next year in the National Football League.

By the looks of it, Clements hasn't really made up his mind what he'll do next year. Now I have a hunch he'll stay with Hamilton, seeing as he's having "so much fun".

As for predictions for the Grey Cup, I think Hamilton will knock off Ottawa in the east semi-final. The Montreal Alouettes, though, will beat the Ticats and return to the Grey Cup again.

In the west, Calgary should beat B.C., but won't be able to get past Edmonton.

So there you have it ... another Edmonton-Montreal Grey Cup.

And the Eskimos will win their second Cup in a row.

READ AN INTERESTING COLUMN IN THE "HOCKEY NEWS" ... by Stan Fischler.

He was saying how stupid it was for the NHL to force players to wear helmets, comparing helmeted players to beings similar in looks to "R2D2" and the like.

About how you just can't tell who's on the ice anymore.

About players who said, "Well ... I've played in about one thousand games without a helmet and I never got hurt because I didn't have one."

And all that garbage like "players swing their sticks more now that players wear helmets."

Horsefeathers!

Mr. Fischler doesn't realize that it's up to the individual player to decide whether he "likes or dislikes" wearing a helmet, even though most of the NHL players are now forced to wear them.

Possibly Mr. Fischler isn't thinking about the innocent looking accident that turns into a freak accident.

Because all it takes ... is a player to fall near the boards, bang his head in the right place ... and bang! He's dead.

Saints clip Falcon's wings

By Larry Mitchell

The visiting Drumheller Falcons looked more like the Badlands budgie birds when they flew over Akinsdale arena Saturday night for the first meeting of the season with the Jr. Saints.

Falcons lost by a rather flattering score of 9-3 for their 13th loss in 14 starts after having a three year absence from the Alberta Junior "A" Hockey League.

The win for the Saints, coupled with a 7-2 win over the Traders in St. Albert Wednesday night, gives them sole possession of third spot in the eight-team loop.

Saints have now won nine, lost three and tied one in 13 games and are only four points behind first place Red Deer Rustlers, who have played one more game.

Calgary Canucks slipped into second spot with a 3-1 set-back to the Rustlers Saturday in Red Deer.

In other weekend AJHL action, Taber Golden Suns handed the visiting Sherwood Park Crusaders their sixth loss in a row with a 5-1 win, while on Sunday the Traders beat Drumheller 5-2 and Calgary Spurs defeated the Crusaders 6-4.

The Saints 7-2 win over the Traders Wednesday evened their record with the Fort at one game apiece as they had lost the previous night by a 6-4 score, with the Traders scoring three powerplay goals in the third period.

In that game Traders were trailing 4-3 early in the third period when referee Larry Antoniuk called a five minute high sticking penalty on Saints Troy Murray for allegedly injuring Gilles Choquet of the Traders, as both players got their sticks a little too high.

What Antoniuk failed to take into consideration was the fact that Murray was the one who was cut for eight stitches to his chin from Choquet's stick, but no penalty was given to the Traders player. No blood was drawn on Choquet.

As Murray had already been involved in an earlier fight, he was automatically ejected from the game and assessed a further two minutes. When all the argu- Please Turn to Page B 2

Olympian swimmers living up to their name

St. Albert residents should be proud to know that one of the best swim clubs in Canada is putting swimmers through the paces at the Fountain Park Pool in St. Albert.

According to the latest Canadian Swim Magazine, the Olympian Swim Club is ranked fifth in Canada in having the best age group swimmers (age group swimmers are swimmers 14 and under).

Swimming has now surpassed hockey and figure skating in its performances on a world-wide competition level, and the amount of local swimmers in the Olympian Club is beginning to show that. There are presently 40 age-groupers now working out at the St. Albert branch of the club, under the guidance of coaches Debbie Wilson and Gary Packer.

The Olympian Swim Club, sensing the need and interest of children and parents anxious to participate in a rapidly growing and healthy sport, has incorporated into its training program a three week "developmental course." This program is geared mainly towards the swimmer who is new to competitive swimming, and gives him or her the opportunity to "wet his feet" and experience a little bit of what is expected of the competitive swimmer; also giving them a good chance of learning some of the technical aspects of the sport.

A developmental group is presently training at the Fountain Park Pool. This Friday marks the end of the session, with a swim meet scheduled at Kinsmen Aquatic Centre that day for this group. The meet will run from 4:30 to 6 p.m., with a party and awards presentation to follow.

A program for swimmers who are currently "B" or "summer swimmers" will be held in two weeks at the Fountain Park Pool. Competitive "summer" swimmers will be able to take part in this three week course without jeopardizing their summer standing. For more information on this subject, call Bev Forbes at 436-8427.

Looking into recent history, three swim meets were held on the weekend, the Golden Bears Sprint Meet held at the Kinsmen Aquatic Centre, the Golden Bears Relays held at the U of A pool, and the Stettler 10 and under meet.

St. Albert swimmers entered in the two Edmonton meets were Terry Lynch, Jamie Kendall, Ian Visman, Scott Flowers, Derek Lux, Dean Schultz, Lynn Thompson, Susan Timms and Robyn LeDrew. Travelling to Stettler were Ron Laing, Heather Lux, Kim Chalcroft, Gretel Rachor, Cory Wilson, Jeff Hayden, Todd Forbes and Tyler Forbes. All swimmers came through with praiseworthy performances, and results will be available soon.

A senior swim meet will be hosted by the Keyano Club Nov. 16-18. St. Albert swimmers who qualified are Jamie Kendall, Terry Lynch, Ian Visman, Kerry Timms and Lynn Thompson.

The club has recently seen the return of Scott Flowers to St. Albert. Scott set some records as an eight and under swimmer here two years ago before moving east to Ottawa. His return should help the Olympian Swim Club in its quest to maintain a high standard in Canadian swimming circles.

Saints clip Falcons

ing was over, the Saints were short-handed a full seven minutes and could not hold off the Traders, who scored three times in just over four minutes.

Earlier in the game a Fort player was given a match penalty for pulling hair and while off for five minutes the Saints scored three goals.

Needless to say, coach Doug Messier of the Saints and Gene Achymichuk of the Traders were more than a little displeased with Antoniuk's work.

JAMIE McEWEN

Wednesday in St. Albert the Saints had no trouble in posting a 7-2 win over the Traders with Mickey McCarthy scoring three times and Jim McEwen adding two more to lead the Saints at track.

Saturday night the Falcons played their first-ever game in St. Albert and this writer was not very impressed with the coaching display of Norm Johnson of the Drumheller squad.

He did not appear to have much respect from his players, which is not hard to understand when you physically abuse them after not having good shifts on the ice.

Troy Murray and Bruce Jacobson led the Saints on the scoresheet with a pair of goals each, while singles went to Blaine Peerless, Jim Gates, Mickey McCarthy, Don Mercier and Pat Poulin.

Saints were in Red Deer last night but no score was available as the Gazette went to press.

Saints will travel to Calgary this Friday for their first meeting of the season with the Canucks. They will be in Sherwood Park next Tuesday and back in St. Albert on Wednesday against the Traders.

DO AS I DO...

Debbie Wilson, co-coach of the St. Albert branch of the Olympian Swim Club, shows some of the club's swimmers the proper way to enter a dive. The club is one of the best winter clubs in Alberta, with strong showings from its St. Albert swimmers in many recent meets.

Who's going to use the track?

By Marty O'Kell

With the 1979 Alberta Summer Games now fading into the past, the question of usage of the track facility, Fowler Athletic Park, has come to mind.

From talking to several people, it appears the only use it will get next year, at least in an organized level, is the St. Albert schools holding their track meets at the site.

Lorne Wood, executive director of the Alberta

Schools Athletic Association, said "I'm not aware of any," in answering a question of whether anything has been planned for the future.

He did say, however, that he expects the Provincial High School Track and Field been held in Edmonton and Calgary on a rotating basis, as the two major cities are the only places in Alberta with proper facilities, with the exception of Red Deer. The central Alberta city, though, Championships to be held at Fowler Athletic Park, but not until 1981 at the earliest.

The championships have not been interested in holding them.

Wood maintains the North West zone, which St. Albert is a part of, would probably make a bid to hold the 1981 Championships. If that happens, Wood believes Edmonton and Calgary would be delighted to let someone else share in the responsibility of holding them. And the only place in the North West zone that has proper facilities is St. Albert.

Chances are very good, however, for many provincial type meets, according to Roger Burrows, technical director of the Alberta Track and Field Association. Burrows was emphatic in saying, "I'm convinced we will use the track for domestic meets."

He added the quality of the track is in our favor, as the rubberized asphalt surface

"cured beautifully" after the Summer Games.

It was hoped St. Albert could host the 1980 Canadian National Junior Championships, however, the Alberta bid was lost to Ontario, and that meet will be held in Sudbury.

The system has now changed for awarding the Nationals, and instead of provinces bidding for a chance to host them, a rotation system will be used.

Following the Championships in Sudbury, Newfoundland will host them in 1981, Manitoba in 1982, Quebec in 1983 and Alberta in 1984. The exact location of the Alberta hosted meet will not be decided until 1982.

"We have to use it," Burrows said, "it would be such a crime if we didn't."

So for now, it would seem that the year 1980 will see locally run meets, mostly for schools at Fowler Athletic Park.

And the avid jogger.

Antiques hosting tourney

The St. Albert Antiques Hockey Club will be hosting a 14-team tournament Nov. 9 to 11 at the Calahoo Arena.

Games will be played Friday at 7:30 to 12 midnight, Saturday from 8 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. and Sunday from 8 a.m. to 9:30 p.m.

The tourney will be divided into two divisions, one for "goodtimers," and one for "oldtimers."

Entered in the Goodtimer category, besides the Antiques, are the St. Albert New Yorkers, St. Albert Raiders, St. Albert Spartans, Pibroch Penguins, Spruce Grove Total Sound Eagles, Stony Plain Outlaws and Spruce Grove Peter's Pizza.

In the Oldtimer group, the St. Albert Warlords, Morinville, Barrhead, Old Heron, Calahoo, Parkway Country and Paradis Sharpening will take to the ice.

The opening round draw in the double knockout event will see Pibroch play Total Sound Friday at 7:30 p.m., Antiques tangle with the New Yorkers at 9 p.m., and Peter's Pizza and the Outlaws at 10:30 p.m.

Saturday, the Raiders and Spartans will battle at 8 a.m., while the Oldtimers event will begin at 9:30 a.m. with Morinville playing Barrhead. An 11 a.m. match will see Calahoo take on the Warlords, while Parkway will play Paradis at 12:30 p.m.

The tourney will break Saturday evening for a dance at the St. Albert Community Hall.

For more information on the tourney, call Richard Adamkiewicz at 425-4047 or 476-1812.

Morinville bantams drop league opener

The Morinville bantams opened their league schedule with an exciting game against Spruce Grove Saturday, but didn't win the shootout going down 6-4.

Spruce Grove scored two quick goals early in the first period, but Dave Kegler replied for Morinville with the help of Rick Mulligan.

Morinville took a 4-2 lead in the second on goals from Chris Bokenfroh, Rob Hoffman and Mulligan in a period that was dominated by Morinville. Assists went to Tim Quinn, Kegler and Mulligan.

Spruce Grove came on late in the second and the third, and scored four unanswered goals for the 6-4 win.

In an exhibition game at Fultonvale, Morinville came up against a fired up team and lost by a 6-1 count. The lone Morinville goal came off the stick of Kegler with assists going to Dwight Van Brabant and Wayne Dahl.

The next league game for Morinville will be against St. Albert.

Legal dumps Westlock

Legal Canadiens whipped Westlock 12-2 Sunday in a Sturgeon Valley Senior Hockey League exhibition game in Legal.

Canadiens received goals from Real Huot, Jay Gramley and Richard St. Martin with two each, and Leo Provencal, Rick Provencal, Gilbert Longpre, Denise Chamberland, Cam Crockett, and Ross McKenzie with singles.

Westlock goals came from Brian Carnegie and Maurice Fagnan.

Legal's first league game will take place in Legal Friday at 8:30 p.m. as Morinville will be in for a visit.

Other Friday games will have Gibbons at Alexander, Calahoo at Namao, and Bon Accord at Redwater. These games will start at 8 p.m.

Sunday, Alexander will travel to Morinville, Namao at Gibbons, Redwater at Calahoo and Legal at Bon Accord. Sunday games begin at 2 p.m., with the exception of the Legal-Bon Accord match, which starts at 2:30 p.m.

Nordic Ski Club holding meeting

The St. Albert Nordic Ski Club is holding its annual fall meeting in the Akinsdale Clubhouse at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, November 16.

Club members and anyone interested in cross country skiing are welcome to attend.

The club executive will be outlining the proposed program for the skiing season, including trips and beginners lessons. This meeting will also provide an opportunity for the public to express any ideas or concerns about cross country skiing.

Sabres top Red Deer twice

St. Albert's bantam A reps, the Territorial Leasing Sabres, added a pair of wins over Red Deer in early season play.

On Oct. 27 in Red Deer, the Sabres doubled their hosts 8-4 under new coach Rick Rowell, then routed them 6-1 in a return game on Thursday in St. Albert.

Sunday in Sherwood Park, the Sabres lost a 9-6 shootout to Sherwood Park.

In the Sabres home opener against Red Deer, a close checking first period saw St. Albert take a 2-0 lead on goals by John Lenz from Dale McFee, and Todd Carnelly from Tim Sebastian. Scott Stanley, in goal for St. Albert, played a good game in keeping Red Deer off the board for most of the contest.

The second period went scoreless, but St. Albert opened the third with a pair of quick goals. Lenz scored unassisted, and Erin Oor fired a quick shot after taking a face-off pass from Carnelly. Red Deer scored their only goal of the game before the Sabres fired two more 10 seconds apart. Todd Ewen from Oor and Scott Rusnak from Ewen finished off the scoring.

In Sherwood Park on Sunday, the Sabres faced a tough, big, physical club in Sherwood Park.

Sherwood Park opened the scoring midway through the first period, but Emanuel Vivieros scored unassisted moments later to draw even. Sebastian gave the Sabres a 2-1 lead a few minutes later, assisted by Rusnak.

Sherwood Park, though, had had enough of the close game and promptly fired in four in the last few minutes to take a commanding 5-2 lead.

The Sabres came out fired up and skating hard in the second, scoring three markers to tie the game at 5-5. Darren Weismantel and Tony Rouault worked up a nice passing play before giving it to Willy Plageman, who neatly popped the puck into the net. McFee scored his second unassisted shortly after, then Weismantel tallied from Oor and Rouault for the tying goal. Sherwood Park, however, marked one for a 6-5 lead.

The third period had the Sabres killing penalties with two men in the sin bin for a while. Some big saves by net-minder Chris Lane and strong penalty killing kept the hosts off the scoresheet.

Weismantel scored his second of the night in the third, but the Park came back with three of their own to win 9-6.

Sabres next action comes Thursday evening as Strathcona will visit the Perron Arena for a 7:30 contest.

ALL EYES TO THE NET

contest played Sunday in Morinville. The Jets are on the road for two games, before coming home to host St. Plain on Nov. 18.

Raiders continue winning ways

Last Wednesday, Sherwood Park was host to St. Albert's midget "A" Raiders, with the guests posting a 6-4 victory.

Mitch Poulin paced the Raiders with a hat trick in the contest.

The Raiders also played Camrose Monday night at the Perron Arena, with the locals coming from behind to win 5-3.

In the game in Sherwood Park, Dennis O'Neill, Brent Weller and Mike Siebrasse tallied along with Poulin.

Close checking in the first period had the Sherwood Park club frustrated as they allowed the visitors to take a 3-1 lead.

Two quick goals by Sherwood in the second put the teams back on even terms, but by the end of the second, the Raiders had connected twice and Sherwood Park once for a 5-4 St. Albert lead.

In the final frame, St. Albert penalties had them defending their lead for several minutes with one or two men short. Cam Sebastian helped out with some very good goaltending, making key stops and keeping Sherwood Park from gaining a tie.

With the pressure over late in the third, the Raiders notched another to ice the cake for the 6-4 win.

Monday night at Perron Arena, the Raiders had to overcome a two-goal deficit in the final period to defeat the Camrose Nordics 5-3.

The hustling Camrose team kept the Raiders off the scoreboard until the middle of the second period, when Brad Hammett evened up the Nordics first period goal. Good defensive play by both teams kept the score at 1-1 by the end of the second.

However, defensive lapses by the home team in the early parts of the third put Camrose ahead 3-1. St. Albert got on track and reared back with four unanswered goals to end the game 5-3.

Brent Weller scored two goals, with other singles going to Poulin and Coyes.

BEHIND THE BENCH: Players from the Raiders team and several hardy fathers were busy this past weekend in the woods cutting trees for firewood as a fund raising venture for the team. As of now, birch firewood is available. Phone 458-4633 or 459-7831 if you would like some.

Sturgeon Valley Hockey League opens this Friday

The eight-team Sturgeon Valley Senior Hockey League will open their season with a full slate of games scheduled for Friday and Sunday.

Morinville Frontiersmen will be in Legal against the Canadiens, Gibbons Marlowes will travel to Alexander for a game with the Braves, Calahoo Scorpions will be in Namao and Bon Accord will take on the defending champion Outlaws in Redwater.

All games will start at 8 p.m. except the game in Legal which will start at 8:30 p.m.

Sunday afternoon Alexander will be in Morinville, Namao at Gibbons, Redwater in Calahoo and Legal at Bon Accord.

All games will begin at 2 p.m., except at Bon Accord. That game will go at 2:30.

The remainder of the schedule will see games played every Friday and Sunday until Feb. 15 when the regular schedule ends.

All teams play a good brand of senior hockey and will provide plenty of action.

Kolomyjec wins Jr.-Sr. High 'spiel

The St. Albert Junior-Senior High School Bonspiel was held on Sunday, November 4 at the St. Albert Curling Club.

First in "A" event, sponsored by the St. Albert Men's Curling Club, was won by the Janice Kolomyjec rink. Curling with Janice was John Vettergreen, Lynn Hengen and Geordie Filipchuk. Second in "A" was the Darrell Garrick rink of Cam Hite, Val Yushchyshyn and Christine Diefenbach. Third in "A" went to the Keren Martin rink of Dave Scharf, Ronda Eaton and Lyle Arnason. The Dale Thronson foursome of Chris Kolomyjec, Warren Johnson and Marg Phinney was fourth in the "A" event.

The final of the "B" event was a closely contended contest between the Craig Kamminga team and the Miles Spencer foursome. Kamminga's team emerged victorious, winning the trophy sponsored by the St. Albert Ladies Curling Club. Curling with Craig was Heather Smith, Eddie Garrick and Carlene Lapan. Curling with Miles was Daneka Puech, Martin Cairns and Elizabeth Wooding.

The "C" event, sponsored by the St. Albert Protestant Separate Teacher's Association, was won by the Brad James team of Heather Fisher, Greg Brown and Sue Kolomyjec. Second in the "C" went to the Sandy Rogers foursome of Clark Hartley, Dean Langille, and Michelle Munroe.

S.A. High loses series to Vanier

By Danny Lyndon
St. Albert High's volleyball teams played their last league series of the season against G.P. Vanier of Morinville on home territory, losing the series in all four categories.

In junior girls, the St. Albert team won the first game 15-2, but lost the final three by scores of 15-13, 15-6 and 15-0.

Vanier won the first three games in the junior boys group by scores of 15-13, 15-8 and 15-9, before losing the fourth to St. Albert High 15-5.

The senior girls had very competitive matches, with Vanier taking the first game 15-4, St. Albert winning the second 15-13, and Vanier closing out with 15-10 and 16-14 wins.

The senior boys series was not as close, with Vanier winning all four games by scores of 15-1, 15-5, 15-11 and 15-11.

This Saturday, the junior teams will be participating in a tournament at Sturgeon Composite High School in Nampa. Also participating will be Paul Kane, Vanier, Archbishop Jordan, and Sturgeon.

Next Wednesday, is "Conference" for both senior St. Albert High teams. Also competing in the same conference are Stony Plain and Spruce Grove. The games will be played in Spruce Grove.

Nu-West drops first three

St. Albert's peewee "A" entry, the Nu-West Canadians, dropped their first three games in league action.

On October 27, Strathcona Warriors clipped the Canadians 5-3 behind outstanding goaltending of Warrior's Paterson. The young netminder stole the show while stopping 40 shots. St. Albert goals came from Billy Mitchell, Greg Hawgood and Eric Olsen.

Nu-West travelled to Fort Saskatchewan the next night, losing 6-3 to the Fort A & W squad with penalties proving costly to St. Albert.

Mitchell had a pair with Hawgood collecting a single to account for Canadian scoring.

The Canadians third loss was at the hands of the Sherwood Park Dairy Queen Jets by a 7-3 count.

The game, played in St. Albert, featured fast skating and lots of end-to-end rushes. Tim Korz had two goals while Jim Hammett notched one in a losing cause.

The Canadians travelled to Calgary for an exhibition encounter with the Oakridge Mustangs on the weekend.

Saturday, the hosts topped St. Albert 7-4 with a five goal, third period in a very exciting, fast game. Joel Borle, Hammett, and Olsen with two accounted for Nu-West's scoring.

The second game, Sunday, was almost identical to Saturday's, but the score ended at 6-3 for the Mustangs. Matt Peskewis scored a hat trick for the Canadians only goals.

Trent Rees, a former St. Albert resident, was the big gun for Calgary earning two goals and four assists in the two-game series.

The St. Albert boys were billeted in Calgary, with Brent and Bonnie Rees doing a tremendous job in organizing the weekend event.

New rules for soccer mini-mites

At last week's Hercules Sports Association soccer meeting, attention was given to the youngest age group playing soccer in St. Albert, with a major decision made in hopes of improving the game.

The mini-mite age group will play seven-a-side soccer for next season on an experimental basis, with each team carrying a roster of 10 players. The mini-mites will play across field, enabling two games to go on at the same regular size field.

The new ruling, for St. Albert only, will enable coaches to instruct the young kids better, while giving the players a better chance of developing skills at an earlier age. At the same time, coaches of mini-mite teams will have an easier time with their job.

Also decided at the meeting was the elimination of five year olds from playing next year. To be eligible to play, a youngster must be six years old on Jan. 1, 1980.

An Alberta Soccer Association referee clinic will be held in mid January, and a Level 1 coaches clinic has been planned for April, both sponsored by Hercules.

Several league director positions were filled at the meeting. Hercules' now has two directors for mini-mites, two for mites, two for peewees, one for senior girls, and one for senior mens.

The addition of senior men's soccer will be a new step for Hercules, who in the past have concentrated on soccer at the minor level. It is hoped a senior league (players must be 18 years of age or over) will be able to start with five or six teams, with games to be played mostly on Sundays.

The annual Hercules general meeting, for both soccer and fastball, will be held on Nov. 22 at the Percy Page Centre, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

For more information, or if you would like to take on a league directorship, call Dieter Knobloch at 939-3148.

New executive for tennis club

The annual general meeting of the St. Albert Tennis Club was held at Mission Clubhouse on October 21.

Officers for the 1980 season were elected and are as follows: President Derm Begley, Vice President Frank Carnahan, Secretary Lee Dioszeghy, Treasurer David Pender, Tournament Directors Barb Chan, Sally Toft, David Shanks. Junior co-ordinator Jeanette Titus, Junior Representatives Kathy Goodall and John McKinley, Social Director Dorothy Sombach.

It was agreed that four additional officers be added to the executive for the coming year, and they are league co-ordinators Maureen Pillman and John Grave, instructional co-ordinator Judy Wood and planning coordinator David Rudge.

A special vote of thanks was extended to outgoing president Cynthia Sage, she gave greatly of her time and expertise over the past two years in that office, and her effort was much appreciated by the members.

The membership thanked all officers on the 1979 executive for a job well done.

Jets bow to Leduc

Two goals by Stan Lubyhinski led the Leduc Riggers to a 7-2 win over the Sturgeon Jets in a game played Tuesday in Morinville.

Other Leduc goals came from Terry Dublanko, Len Cust, Dean Beakin, Len Lyatt, Dave Sauch and Rick Bartlett.

Jet goals came off the stick of Jeff Mulligan with two late in the third period.

Jets will be in Leduc tonight for a return visit.

FOOTBALL FIGURIN'

It was another weekend of very surprising upsets, but both Joe Who and Marty fared well.

Joe compiled a record of 9-5 in the NFL, for a total of 60-80, while Marty was one behind with an 8-6 record for 79-61 on the season.

Joe evened out at 2-2 in the CFL's last weekend, while Marty finally hit a perfect score of 4-0. On the season, Joe ended with a 15-26 score, while Marty just barely finished above .500 with a record of 21-20.

Make your pet a good neighbour

Pet owners have a responsibility not only towards their pet, but also towards their neighbours. Amid the enthusiasm of bringing up a new pet as a good member of the household, it is easy to forget the duty of bringing up the pet as a good neighbour.

Fouling public and private property probably upsets neighbours more than any other offence. For that reason, many local municipalities have introduced "poop 'n scoop" by-laws. These laws have generated controversy, with some non-pet owners seeking to make them as repressive as possible, while some pet owners reject all responsibility for their pet's behaviour.

In fact, the majority of pet owners recognize the problem and take steps to control their pets, either by building a fence round their own property or by keeping their dog or cat on leash. If offensive accidents do happen on property other than their own, then they are prepared to clean up.

But responsible pet owners recognize that the more insidious problem is uncontrolled procreation. There's little doubt that there is a serious over-population of unwanted and uncared-for pets. The unexpected litter, the stray at the back door, and figures from humane societies on the number of animals put to sleep each year all testify in their different ways to the sad excess of domestic pets.

Spaying and neutering are not only pragmatic steps toward the control of the pet population, but they also actually benefit the animal.

"Neutering your dog is a truly responsible contribution towards reducing the problem," says Dr. Michael Fox, noted animal psychologist, veterinarian, and author of two pet care handbooks available free exclusively from the maker of Ken-L Ration and Puss 'n Boots pet foods.

"Neutering a male dog eliminates future prostate problems and spaying a female eliminates future problems of her productive system and reduces chances of mammary tumors."

Some female dogs, if they are not bred when they come into heat, will actually go into a false pregnancy, Dr. Fox points out.

"They may look pregnant and will behave protectively towards a favourite toy or 'adopted' slipper. Some dogs will even go through false labour!"

"This psychological distress," says Dr. Fox, "is best prevented by having the bitch spayed."

In the case of cats, neutering a male before sexual maturity will reduce his urge to roam and he will also be less likely to spray the home with his territorial marks.

"Sometimes female cats will cry maddeningly and claw to get out during their violent heat periods," says Dr. Fox. "Spaying them will make life easier for them and for you."

Besides the problem of fouling public property and unwanted procreation, pets can also offend by damaging property or person and by disturbing the peace.

Damaging other people's property can mean digging holes in lawns or favourite flower beds, chewing fence posts or young trees, or -- perhaps the most common of all -- breaking into garbage cans and garbage bags. The solution: don't let the pet run free -- ever. Remember, this is as much for the pet's good as the neighbour's, for the animal can root out old bones which can splinter, or can accidentally eat decayed food which has turned poisonous, or even small splinters of glass which will damage the intestines.

Much the same applies to cats, though they do not offend in as many ways as dogs. "Don't allow them to roam free," advises Dr. Fox. "They may get injured or killed by cats, other animals, or automobiles ... Clearly, it's unneighbourly not to restrain your cat."

A cat that roams and wanders might, for example, feel free to use a child's playtime sandbox as a giant litter box -- an act no neighbour will appreciate.

Finally, don't allow a dog to bark unnecessarily and disturb the peace of the neighbourhood; once or twice at a passing stranger or another animal is natural, but if the barking persists, the dog must be checked.

"A responsible owner trains his dog not to bark excessively (one of the most common nuisance complaints in residential areas). Nor does he let his dog urinate on someone's lawn or sidewalk trees because it will kill grass and young trees and shrubs," Dr. Fox points out.

You can find out more about the behaviour and psychology of pets, and how to care for them, if you write for your free copy of Dr. Fox's handbook, either to "Ken-L Ration Dog Care" or to "Puss 'n Boots Cat Care" at Box 5400, Don Mills, Ontario M9C 2T9.
